

Report On Rails In JFK's Hands

Plan Goes To Congress On Monday

With Proposals To Head Off Impending Strike

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today was handed a special fact-finding report on the railway work rules dispute and announced its contents will be made public Saturday.

The report, pinpointing facts and issues in the four-year controversy, will be used by the President in preparing legislation he will recommend to Congress Monday in an attempt to avert a nationwide railroad strike.

The report was prepared by a six-member committee headed by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz. Committee members represented equally government, management and labor.

The special committee members conferred about 40 minutes with the President when they delivered their report at the White House. Wirtz stayed on for another 40 minutes.

None of the members would comment on the meeting or whether any side attempts had been made at settling the dispute.

The report is to be sent to Congress Monday, along with Kennedy's proposals for legislation to block a nationwide rail strike.

The committee, headed by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, entered Kennedy's office without making any comment.

It completed the report Thursday night, with help from a staff of Labor and Commerce department aides.

Versailles City Council Sets Bond Issue Date

Versailles city council has called a special election for Tuesday, Aug. 6, for the purpose of submitting to voters a proposition to issue general obligation bonds in the principal amount of $180,000 for acquiring right-of-way construction, extending and improving the sanitary sewer system of the city.

In addition to the $180,000 proposed general obligation bonds, a federal grant, in the amount of $78,000 has been requested for accelerated public works funds from the Community Facilities Administration of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. An additional $32,000 has been requested for the United States Public Health Service for assistance in the construction of sewage lagoon and outfall sewers.

A similar general obligations bond issue was defeated in 1960 when voters turned down a proposition, asking for $232,000 for the improvement and extension of the city's sewage system. At that time, the city was operating on a levy of $1.20 per $100 of assessed valuation. The present levy is $1 on the $100 assessed valuation.

A two-thirds majority is necessary for passage of the bond issue.

To Record Height In X-15 Aircraft

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Space Agency's Joseph A. Walker shooting far higher than expected, vaulted an estimated 67 miles high today to a new X-15 altitude mark.

The veteran rocket plane pilot went aloft with a target altitude of 315,000 feet, less than a mile higher than the old X15 mark of 314,750.

But, for reasons not at once learned, his altitude angle on the upward surge was steeper than expected and he shot to an estimated 350,000 feet.

"You're very high on profile, Joe," his ground control team radioed to him several times.

Slips Out During Fire

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (AP)—The fire alarm sounded next door to the Village Court Thursday.

Everybody rushed to the windows to see where the trucks were headed—everybody except Ernest Armstrong, 35, who was being arraigned on a charge of stealing a television set.

CAN'T FIGHT CITY HALL—When Joe Conrad refused to sell his home to Charlotte, N.C., for a right-of-way, the city went ahead and took the half it needed, offering him about $28,000 for what it claimed. The law is on the side of the city, but Conrad said he'll take the matter to court. (NEA Telephoto)

Room for 18 More Beds

Hospital Addition In Service Monday

The third floor of the Bothwell Memorial Hospital has been completed and, although the new furniture has not yet arrived, will be opened Monday with the old furniture to be used for the present time.

"We hate to open it with the old furniture," said Charlie Edwards, administrator of the hospital, "but it is better to have the patients in the old furniture in the new rooms than in the halls as we have had to do."

The hallway, when you first get off the elevator, really opens your eyes. The lower part of the walls are painted persimmon, a nice bright orange red shade, while the upper part a pale yellow. The floors are of light gray tile.

Work was started on the third floor on Dec. 26, 1962, and while it wasn't long in construction, it seemed a long time to the staff at Bothwell Hospital who didn't know what to do with the overflow of patients.

There are nine new two-bed rooms, which gives an 18 bed addition, and the rooms are large and bright, with a picture window in each with fiberglass draw draperies with a combined scenic and floral design.

Something new, that Edwards believes will work well, is the location of the beds. Instead of being side beside, the heads of the beds are against opposite walls, and the patients, though the distance is farther apart, face each other, yet not directly as one bed is at one side of the room the other at the other side.

On the wall above each bed is the general room light, and from one side pulls out an iron extension with a reading light which may be adjusted to suit the patient. On the other side an extension that goes even farther has the color corrective lens so the doctors may examine the patient better, if necessary. All of this is in one compact light fixture.

Beside it is the built in oxygen

NEW ASSISTANT — William L. McKnight, Jr., has been appointed administrative assistant at Bothwell Hospital, according to hospital administrator Charlie Edwards. McKnight will serve as Personnel Officer and Purchasing Agent for the 138-bed hospital. Mrs. Irene Spears, R.N., who has been Purchasing Agent and Sterile Supply Supervisor, will become Day Supervisor of Nursing Service. McKnight and his wife, Gail, have a four-month old son, Max. McKnight will begin his duties at Bothwell Hospital on Monday. In 1960 McKnight graduated from the University of Kansas with a B.S. Degree in Business Administration. Following six months service in the Air Force, he became Assistant Administrator of the Bristow Memorial Hospital, Bristow, Okla., the position he now leaves to come to Sedalia.

Sunday Sales Law Is Upheld By a Judge

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Circuit Judge George E. Schaaf ruled today the Sunday sales law enacted by the 72nd Missouri General assembly is valid.

The St. Louis County circuit judge said in a statement accompanying his formal opinion "The Sunday closing law is not violative of any rights of GEM stores guaranteed it under the federal or state constitutions."

GEM Stores Inc., a group of discount department stores, contested the new laws on grounds that it violated the United States and Missouri constitutions.

Missouri Attorney General Thomas F. Eagleton and St. Louis County Prosecuting Attorney Daniel V. O'Brien intervened in behalf of the state.

The case is expected to go to the Missouri Supreme Court on appeal as soon as GEM's attorneys can get it before the high court.

Democrat Scores With News Story

National Award For Coverage Of Moore Case

The Sedalia Democrat was awarded third place in the 1963 National Better Newspaper best news story contest for newspaper stories having a circulation of 3,000 to 100,000. Receiving national recognition was the story by W. D. Hill, Democrat news editor, concerning the Billy Jo Moore case and the death of her 4-year-old daughter following a beating with a belt here last June. Newspapers from 34 states were in competition.

Material for the winning story was collected from authorities in seven states and was accompanied by four photographs. As the story developed, it was discovered (Please turn to Page 4, Col. 3)

30 Day Jail Term, Too

Assault On Police Nets Heavy Fine

Two Sedalia men drew heavy fines and one was sentenced to 30 days in the city jail in Police Court Friday morning for their roles in a disturbance at the Interlude Bar, 112 West Second, Thursday night in which a policeman was assaulted.

Ervin Schanuth, 31, 401 North Engineer, and David Estenbaum, 29, 818 West Seventh, appeared handcuffed and shirtless before Judge U. L. Howerton. Schanuth had a blackened left eye and his right temple was severely swollen. A large scratch was visible on his bare back.

Both men were charged on two separate warrants, one signed by police officers and the other on complaint of Jack Morris, owner of the Interlude, where the disturbance originated.

Schanuth was found guilty on the city charge of assaulting a police officer, being intoxicated in public and disturbing the public peace. He was fined $200 and sentenced to 30 days in jail on the assault charge, $15 for being intoxicated and $15 for disturbing the peace.

On the complaint signed by Morris, Schanuth pleaded innocent, but was found guilty and fined $25 each on charges of disturbing the peace and destruction of property for a total fine of $50.

Estenbaum was charged by the city with resisting arrest, being intoxicated in public and disturbing the public peace. He was fined $25 for resisting arrest, $15 for being intoxicated and $25 for disturbing the peace, a total of $65.

On Morris' complaint, Estenbaum also pleaded innocent to disturbing the peace and destruction of property. He was found guilty, however, and fined $25 on each count for a total fine of $50.

Police said Schanuth and Estenbaum touched off an earlier disturbance call at 5:20 p.m. to the Melody Lounge, 207 East Main. But there was no prosecution.

Police Officer Lester Williams, who was assaulted by Schanuth, testified Friday he was driving up Second Street in his patrol car when he stopped to talk to a man.

Williams testified while he was talking Estenbaum came to the police car and asked "What can I do about a man hitting me?" Williams said he had just told

Doors Opened to Inspectors To Prevent Troops Buildup

Khrushchev Proposes Plan In Kremlin Talk

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev today offered to permit foreign inspectors to take up stations at Soviet airfields, railroad stations, highways and ports to prevent secret concentrations of troops for sudden attacks.

The Soviet leader also proposed an exchange of inspection teams between troops in West Germany and Soviet troops in East Germany.

He made the proposals for easing East-West tension in a speech at the huge Kremlin Palace in which he expressed optimism over the chances for reaching agreement on a partial nuclear test ban.

Khrushchev said the Soviet Union also was ready to negotiate a reciprocal reduction of the numbers of Soviet and Western troops stationed in divided Germany.

He said such moves would be a great contribution to the easing of international tensions.

The Soviet premier also insisted upon the signing of a peace treaty with Germany that would settle the status of West Berlin.

He did not set a date on this signing.

In a reference to high-level U.S., British and Soviet talks now in progress in Moscow, Khrushchev said he has the impression that a partial test ban can be achieved.

He quickly added that he would also like a ban on underground tests. He claimed national means of detection are sufficient to guarantee such a ban.

Khrushchev said the Americans and British are still insisting that foreign inspection teams be made a part of any ban on underground tests.

They are insisting on this, he said, because they want the "chance for intelligence work."

Khrushchev Optimistic On Ban Pact

Non-aggression Declarations Seem Acceptable

MOSCOW (AP)—Premier Khrushchev expressed optimism today about the chances for a Big Three agreement in current negotiations on a limited nuclear test ban and said he would like to see outlawing of all such tests, including those underground.

The Soviet leader reiterated in a Kremlin speech that he wanted an East-West nonaggression pact. He did not insist that it be tied to the treaty being negotiated here to forbid nuclear test blasts in the air, outer space and under water.

This would seem to indicate that Khrushchev might be receptive to a countersuggestion made by President Kennedy through his special envoy, W. Averell Harriman, that the issue be handled through nonaggression declarations.

At the same time, Khrushchev again announced he was ready to permit Western inspection of vital military installations inside the Soviet Union as a safeguard against concentrations for a surprise attack.

This was offered as a device for helping to ease world tensions and was not directly connected with the test ban treaty.

Speaking of the U.S., British and Russian test ban talks in Moscow, Khrushchev said:

No Evidence Missing Grain In Red Hands

WASHINGTON (AP)—There is no evidence that any of the 24 million bushels of American grain that vanished in Europe found its way behind the Iron Curtain, the Department of Agriculture told Congress today.

Department officials testified before the House Agriculture Committee, which is looking into the diversion of grain destined for Austria under the U.S. barter program.

Raymond A. Ioanes, administrator of the Foreign Agricultural Service, said, "It seems clear that most of the diverted tonnage was imported into the Federal Republic of Germany."

Germany is ineligible under U.S. law to receive grain through the barter program.

Ioanes acknowledged there has been concern that some of the grain may have been shipped to Soviet block countries.

"There is no evidence revealed by the investigation thus far to indicate that this has occurred," he testified.

The Weather

Clear to partly cloudy and a little cooler tonight and Saturday. Low tonight 67-73. High Saturday in the upper 80s or lower 90s. Scattered showers and thunderstorms likely to night ending Saturday. Winds southwesterly 10 to 20 mph diminishing tonight.

The temperature Friday was 79 at 7 a.m. and 96 at 1 p.m. Low Thursday night was 75.

The temperature one year ago today was: high 94, low 68, two years ago, high 87, low 73; three years ago, high 89, low 60.

Lake of the Ozarks stage: 58.8 feet; 1.2 below full reservoir; down .1.

Question On Allowance

Salary Splitting May Not Do Trick

The practice of splitting income into salary and car allowance to avoid loss of Social Security benefits, brought out after a study of the City of Sedalia employee wage scales approved at the last two Council meetings, may not achieve the desired purpose after all.

The City a couple of years ago approved a $1,200 annual salary plus a $1,200 annual car allowance for a city employee, who indicated that he was going on Social Security. He agreed to remain on the City payroll for the approved amount, a total of $2,400 per year.

Under Social Security laws, an individual may make up to $1,200 per year with no loss of Social Security benefits. Any income over the $1,200 figure requires an adjustment, or loss of Social Security benefits, to be determined by Social Security officials.

At the last Council meeting, the Council approved an additional $25 per month, or $300 per year, car allowance for the employee. This brings the total car allowance to $1,500 per year. According to Social Security officials, the employee must now account to the SS Administration for the entire $1,500 per year as expenses, or become subject to an adjustment.

The same situation would apply to income tax reporting. Social Security benefits are not taxable income, but the entire $2,700 salary and car allowance would be considered taxable income, unless the individual concerned is more than 72 years of age, and must be reported as such.

Lacy Belt, local Internal Revenue official, explained that when a person receives a flat amount for expenses of any sort, he must account for the entire amount on his income tax return, or be taxed for the amount over and above his actual expenses.

Thus the practice of splitting income into salary and a flat rate for expenses does not automatically entitle the recipient to a flat tax-free amount income tax.

Federal Arrest Made Here In Auto Theft Case

Arrested in Sedalia Thursday on a charge of interstate transportation of a stolen vehicle was Robert Lloyd Waddington, 46, 1919 West Tenth. The arrest was made by Pettis County Sheriff Emmett Fairfax and a special agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Waddington, according to the Kansas City office of the FBI, is married and had been working for the Morrison - Hardeman-Perini-Leavell Co., in Sedalia since April, 1962.

The federal warrant for Waddington's arrest was issued April 18, 1962, in Tampa, Fla., reports indicated.

Waddington was picked up at the Pettis County jail by two federal marshals Friday morning and taken to Jefferson City.

Maximum sentence for conviction on the charge is five years in prison and/or a $5,000 fine, according to the FBI.

wide, nor does this guarantee the recipient he will not lose a portion of his Social Security benefits.

In both cases, the expense allowance must be accounted for. The same effect could be obtained by simply paying the employee a set salary, then leave it up to the individual to account for his expenses to the Social Security and income tax people.

Optometrists Warning On Eclipse Peek

The Missouri Optometric Association today warned against viewing the impending solar eclipse Saturday with the naked eye.

The eclipse will be partial over Missouri beginning at approximately 2:29 p.m. and ending at about 4:47 p.m. The maximum amount of the sun's diameter that will be covered by the moon is 67 per cent.

Observers should not use telescopes, binoculars, sunglasses or any other type of glasses to see the eclipse, the Missouri Association said. Dr. Richard C. White, Fulton, president, advised the use of neutral density filters or the construction of a simple viewing aid.

Permanent retinal damage and blindness have been reported after eclipses in the past. In 1959, 170 Australians suffered partial loss of central vision after watching an eclipse for a few seconds. Complete blindness was reported in 21 cases in Utah in 1960.

Unfortunately, there is no immediate hint of danger. First symptoms of damage to the eye may come several hours or a day after the exposure. It causes a change in the shape of objects and the injured person sees with a reddish tinge.

If you want to view the eclipse, Dr. White suggested the use of a pinhole device which avoids the harmful infra-red rays. It can be made by punching a clean hole with a pin through a piece of cardboard. The viewer should turn his back to the sun, hold the

Modifies Bond Order In Assault Cases

A modification by Police Judge U. L. Howerton has reduced the minimum amount of bond required for persons charged with assaulting city police officers or resisting arrest.

Howerton issued an order to police Friday morning that the minimum bond in such cases will be $250 and the maximum $500, set according to the seriousness of the offense.

Mayor L. L. Studer had recently asked Howerton to set minimum bond for these offenses at $500 and two men accused Thursday night after an altercation outside the Interlude Bar, 112 West Second, were jailed overnight in lieu of the $500 amount.

Most Famous Jew

Predicts That Jews Will Take More Notice of Christ

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

History's most influential Jew, Jesus, traditionally has been ignored in the annals of Judaism, but a noted Jewish scholar predicts future works will include reference to the ancient Galilean. Not as divinity becomes man, as Christians regard him, but as a wise and inspiring teacher.

Dr. Harry A. Wolfson, professor of Hebrew literature and philosophy emeritus at Harvard University, says fuller restoration of Jewish literary treasures doubtless "will include among them the sermons and parables of Jesus."

He adds that "it is not as a returning hero that Jesus will be restored, and not as a beatified saint nor as an 'individual to be worshiped and exalted above others,' but as one of the 'wise, of blessed memory, who express the national genius of the people.'"

Dr. Wolfson, makes his forecast in a final, memorial issue of "The Menorah Journal," published in honor of its late editor, Henry Hurwitz.

"The Jewish reclamation of Jesus will not be brought about by efforts of evangelistic piety on the part of some Jews, or by a sentimental yearning for what we haven't got," he says.

"It will come about as a result of a wider and more comprehensive conception of the scope of Jewish learning and Jewish literature and of a general restoration of our lost literary treasures."

Noting that Jesus has been "better known among non-Jews than among Jews" because of historical circumstances, Dr. Wolfson says Judaism nonetheless has absorbed much Christian influence.

"A century of infiltration of Christian ideas into our life through all the agencies of education has robbed many of us of our essential Jewish character," he says.

"In everything that guides our life and determines our views thereof, we have become Christianized, for we have somehow accepted Christ if not in the theological sense of a Savior at least in the historical sense of a civilizer."

As for the traditional Jewish position on Jesus, Dr. Wolfson says "Jesus is not a rejected prophet; at best he is a rejected sage."

"The Jews did not put a limit to the books of the Bible in order to keep Jesus out; Jesus simply happened to come at a time when that body of literature, in the opinion of the authorities of the time, was practically closed."

As for incorporation of Jesus' teachings into Jewish lore, Dr. Wolfson says:

"The person of Jesus as conceived in the manner of the various forms of Christianity could never find a place in Judaism, for it is altogether foreign to its fundamental principles. As the promised Messiah, he simply did not meet the conditions."

But there is a place for him as a great rabbi, Dr. Wolfson says. He foresees stories of Jesus being included in Jewish Hagaddah-type narrations, for reading and telling, with one perhaps going like this:

"Come and see, how great is the power of Israel. Once there was a child in Galilee. He was taken captive and carried off into the great city of Rome. There they made a God of him; but some say they made of him only a son of God, and others say only a prophet of God."

"They built temples and churches to his name in every land, and each nation worshiped him according to its tongue, according to its manner, and according to its custom. But the mind of the child was not at rest until he returned to Galilee and saw his name inscribed in an ancient tome among the names of his castigated Pharisees..."

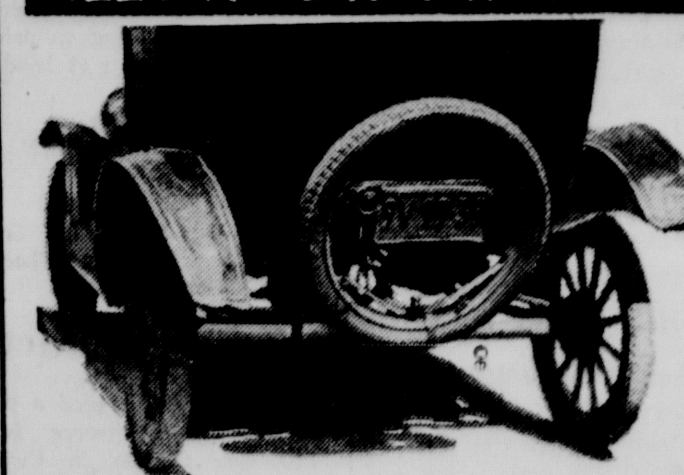

This, says Dr. Wolfson, "is how the Jews will reclaim Jesus."

New Arab Strong Man Is Seen

By WEBB MCKINLEY

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — A new figure has slipped onto the Arab stage and he looks like a strong man.

Maj. Gen. Amin Hafez has done it so quietly, however, that no one is quite sure what role he intends to play.

Here in Damascus, ancient capital of Syria, few know what he looks like, fewer still have heard him speak and no one knows what he is thinking.

"You can talk to him for an hour," one officer said, "and suddenly realize he hasn't said 10 words to you. He is very deep."

Hafez, 52, is, nevertheless, the most powerful man today in Syria. With a clever and forceful maneuver early this month, he thoroughly defeated his chief rival for eminence, Maj. Gen. Ziad El Hariri, and sent him off to pleasant exile in Paris.

Hafez then took on Hariri's two big jobs, minister of defense and chief of staff of the army. He kept his old posts of deputy premier, minister of the interior and martial governor.

He is reputed to be a devoted member of long standing of Ba'ath, the Socialist party which has run Syria since the coup d'etat of March 8. Ba'athists are supposed to believe in collective leadership.

Hafez was born to poor parents in the northern commercial city of Aleppo. He has been a soldier most of his adult life. He became a battalion commander in 1957. After the union of Syria with Egypt in 1958 he was made deputy commander of northern Syria. Then he was transferred to the eastern area, bordering Iraq.

Hafez is said to have played a role in the Ba'ath-inspired Mosul uprising against the late Iraqi dictator Abdul Karim Kassem in 1959, possibly aiding the ill-fated rebels with arms. His exact role never has been pinned down.

Soon after the Mosul uprising, he was sent to the Soviet Union to attend a staff officers' school.

After the Syrians revolted and declared their independence of President Nasser's United Arab Republic in late 1961, Hafez became chief of training of the army. Then he fell out with those in power and was sent to Moscow as military attache. In October 1962, he showed up in Argentina as military attache.

Both jobs, in the Syrian way of things, were considered political exile.

When the so-called secessionist regime was overthrown last Hafez immediately was called back and made a member of the National Revolutionary Council.

When open breaks began appearing between the Ba'athists and Nasser, Hafez took on the job of deputy premier in Salah Bitar's second cabinet. As pro-Nasser mobs rioted in Aleppo and Damascus, Hafez also became "deputy military governor" — deputy only in name because there is no governor.

Calling in pro-Nasserites and Palestinians who had been organizing the rioting, he told them in effect to keep out of Syria's internal affairs, or else.

What he said, or how he said it, so thoroughly frightened the opposition that there have been no riots in volatile Syria since.

One of the puzzles about him is his relationship with Premier Bitar, presumably his political mentor.

While Ba'ath civilian politicians like Bitar may have continued setting civilian policy, there are many in Damascus who believe that Hafez is telling them what to do. A Beirut newspaper recently said he may prove to be "the Nasser of Syria."

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: This may sound pretty silly but I'm dead serious and I need an outside opinion. My boy friend kisses me with his eyes open. Several times I have peeked and there he is — staring. It just spoils everything for me. I can't understand why he does this. What can he be looking at? At such close range I should think his eyes would cross.

Maybe I'm silly but I've always believed that a kiss should be soulful and dreamy. It seems that he wouldn't be looking around unless he were bored.

I have never mentioned this to him because I don't know what to say. Can you help?—PUCKERED BUT UNHAPPY

Dear Unhappy: Your boy friend probably has no idea that this bothers you, and after 30 years he STILL won't know — unless you clue him.

Tell him exactly how you feel. As with most problems, the simple, direct approach is the most effective.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 15-year-old girl who would like your frank opinion on whether or not I am normal.

For years on the last day of camp when all my bunkmates were weeping hysterically at saying farewell, I was never able to join them in this display of emotion. I just can't throw my arms around people and sob. I have strong feelings for people but I've never been able to show them.

Even in a sad movie when everyone else is crying buckets I can't squeeze out a tear. I feel sad, but I don't cry.

Last night I went to a very depressing play with two girl friends. They were bawling their eyes out, and me — nothing, as usual. One of the girls said later, "I think there must be something wrong with you. Anyone who can sit dry-eyed through a performance like that has got to be abnormal."

Is she right?—NO WEEPING WILLOW

Dear Willow: Some people can turn the tears on and off like a faucet. It doesn't mean they feel any worse or that they are more deeply grieved than the person who shows nothing.

Weeping can be a healthy emotional catharsis, but if you can't wring out a tear it's really nothing to cry about.

Dear Ann: My husband's father is very sick. He has an incurable illness and the doctors say he can't live more than a few more months.

Our six-year-old son knows that grandpa is not going to get well. We've told Freddie that grandpa will soon be going to his heavenly home where he will have rest and peace and be free of pain.

Now Freddie talks about nothing but the funeral. He has asked dozens of questions. He just assumes he will be present. The question is, should he be? My husband says, "Yes." I'm not so sure.

I remember the first funeral I attended when I was seven. I had terrible nightmares for years. It left me with tears from which I've never completely recovered. I'm afraid of subjecting our son to the same hazard. What do you say?—W. D. T.

Dear W. D. T.: A six-year-old is too young to attend a funeral, particularly if the casket is open for viewing. Although you didn't spell it out, I feel reasonably certain that this is what caused your nightmares.

Confidential to FED UP WITH FOUL MOUTH: Profanity is a crutch for conversational cripples. Tell him to clean up his language or find another girl.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Library Association Doing Well

CHICAGO (AP)—The 87-year growth of the American Library Association is evident in its changing national headquarters—from Melvil Dewey's desk drawer in Boston in 1876 to a new million-dollar five-story building in Chicago.

Dewey, the first secretary of now the oldest and largest professional library association, meeting this week in Chicago, gave the ALA a home in his desk for 15 years. It wasn't until 30 years after its birth that the association in 1906 obtained a home of its own in Boston. Until then ALA headquarters was wherever its secretary happened to live.

From a membership of 103 librarians in Philadelphia at its founding in October 1876, the association has grown to 26,000 members in the United States and its possessions, Canada and more than 50 other countries.

Members now include library trustees, publishers, businessmen and editors, as well as librarians. Its income is derived from dues, endowment funds and grants for special projects.

Its total expenditures this year, according to Dr. Ralph Munn, director of the Carnegie Library, Pittsburgh, come to nearly $2.5 million.

Until 1917, association activities were restricted to its annual conference, committee work and at limited publishing program. The association's first venture outside strictly librarianship, Munn said, came when it arranged with the Army and Navy to supply reading materials for the armed forces during World War I.

With about $5.5 million raised in public drives, ALA built, equipped and operated camp libraries in this country and abroad.

Carl Milam, executive director for 28 years, is credited with laying the foundation for the many programs in which the ALA now participates.

Today the association sponsors more than 60 special programs relating to every type of library and library service. Twenty-four special projects are being conducted through foundation and government grants totaling more than $897,975.

Smithton '39 Grads To Reunite Sunday

Smithton High School Class of 1939 will have a reunion and basket dinner at noon Sunday in the school cafeteria. All graduates of that class, teachers and school personnel are invited. Guests are to enter the school by the east door.

Mrs. Elmer DeWitt, Sedalia, is in charge of arrangements. She is being assisted by Mrs. F. S. Schutte, Smithton, Mrs. Kathryn Sudduth, Smithton, and Mrs. Hubert Finley, Route 2.

Each family is to bring a basket dinner and its own table service. Iced tea and coffee will be furnished by the committee. There will be a program in the afternoon.

Homemade Rocket Bursts, Killing Boy

NEW YORK (AP)—Edward Sacco Jr., 13, was making a rocket in the basement of his home in Queens.

He and a friend opened a carbon dioxide cylinder and packed it full of kitchen match heads Thursday. They had to make a hole for a fuse.

Edward put a nail to the cylinder and started pounding. After half a dozen blows the cylinder exploded.

He was fatally injured.

Today In Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

CRIME RAMPAGE: The national crime rate is increasing four times as fast as the population, the FBI reports.

Last year it climbed to a new high. For the first time more than two million serious offenses were recorded—almost four a minute.

The statistics were contained in FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover's report Thursday to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Last year's crime rate topped 1961's by 6 per cent. Every crime category but murder increased. Murder dropped 2 per cent.

The trend, the FBI said, was 13 per cent higher than the average crime rate over the three years of 1959-1961.

Statistically, among every 100,000 Americans, there were 4.5 murders, 8.8 rapes, 51.3 robberies, 75.1 assaults and 480.4 burglaries.

BUDGET DEFICIT: A sharp increase in sales of government-held mortgages was a major factor in slicing the budget deficit for fiscal 1963, Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon said Thursday.

President Kennedy announced Wednesday the deficit for the 12 months which ended June 30 was $6.2 billion, about $2.6 billion below estimates made by the administration in January.

Hospital

equipment, and the suction regulator, both of which would otherwise need to be rolled into the room. This equipment provides, also, the telephone plug in and the night light.

A color scheme is used in the room with walls painted a delicate shade of either green, blue or beige with the curtains to match.

Each room has a private toilet. The rooms downstairs, many of them, have a toilet between the rooms, which the patients seem to object to, but they do not object sharing one with the patient in the same room with them.

Each room, also, has two built-in lockers, which are white metal, for the clothes and belongings of each patient. There is a lavatory in each room with a mirror above. All of the rooms are air conditioned with a thermostat in each room which may be adjusted by the patients, and there are three speeds for the adjustment of the heating.

A heavy separating curtain, the top part of which is a thin material to let the light through, divides the room when desired.

The rooms are all alike except the one at the extreme end, which is larger, and different shaped. In this room the beds are side by side.

The large window of clear glass where the bath tub is located is going to be changed to opaque glass, Edwards said, and of course, there will be draperies. In the utility room is a refrigerator, a double stainless steel sink, stove and cabinets. The floor is tile and the walls are beige with beige ceramic tile part way up.

There is another utility room for dirty things, also. At the front of the hall, near the elevator, is the nurses station, with white cabinets, a sink, and white counter. This, too, has a large window with the same type fiberglass curtains in beige.

The third floor gives the hospital 138 beds.

The money allowed for the building of the third floor and the laundry, which is not completed but for which much of the equipment is already here, is $214,000.

Says Bias Is Right If He Pays Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edgar S. Kalb is a big, square-jawed man with close-cropped white hair and a firm conviction about his right to exclude Negroes from his Chesapeake Bay beach club.

"A man has a right to be biased as long as he foots the bill for his bias and doesn't ask the state to pay for it," is the way Kalb, 67, summed up his view Thursday before a House Judiciary subcommittee.

Kalb's testimony, coming after a long string of witnesses had urged even stronger measures to protect Negro rights than those proposed by President Kennedy, seemed to baffle subcommittee members. Their questions probed repeatedly for the roots of his belief.

Q. Do you believe the Biblical injunction to love thy neighbor as thyself?

A. Loving is fine. I don't hate these people. But I believe in the right to choose my own associates.

Q. Would you go to church with a Negro?

A. I want the right not to.

Q. Does your church exclude Negroes?

A. No. And I've stopped contributing to it.

Q. Do you believe the Negro is entitled to equal rights?

A. In the scale of justice, if you put the Negro's right for equal justice on one side and my right not to associate with a particular person on the other, they balance exactly.

The beach club owned by Kalb's family since 1925 is operated as a private club, but anyone can buy a membership at the gate—as long as he meets Kalb's approval. He not only bans Negroes, he said, Indians, Orientals, the British ambassador and girls who change into bathing suits on the beach are not welcome, either.

The British ambassador—along with all other diplomats—was placed on the ban list recently when Kalb notified all embassies in Washington that their personnel, who enjoy diplomatic immunity from arrest, will not be admitted.

He said action stemmed from a long series of incidents—including a girl who slipped out of her clothes and into a bathing suit right out on the beach—involving persons who used their immunity to defy his regulations.

"The president of Tanganyika was received at the White House the other day by President Kennedy. Could he get into your property?" Kalb was asked.

"No," he replied. "That is my right as an American citizen."

"Do you exclude people on the basis of their race or their color?"

"Their color. They should be no darker than me."

Police Crack Down On Bridge Jumpers

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—Police say they will move in fast with arrests if any more young men try diving from the Central Bridge into the Ohio River.

Two Kentuckians tried it this week—on a bet—and came through with only a few aches.

John Dietz, 29, Melbourne, and Charley Parrish, 19, Ryland, made their big splash from the 60-foot-high bridge on a bet with a friend who agreed to wash their cars for a month if they made it.

Officials said the stunt was foolish even for practiced divers because of submerged debris in the river. The bridge runs to Cincinnati.

NEW YORK (AP)—Actor Robert Wagner and Marion Tanner Davey Dones of Los Angeles took out a marriage license today.

Wagner, 33, was divorced in California last year from actress Natalie Wood.

His intended bride, 34, was married previously to Allen A. Davey and Stanley Dones.

Wedding plans were not disclosed.

Doctor Illia Appears In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Dr. Arturo Illia, high man in the July 7 elections, appears certain of enough electoral college votes to elect him president of Argentina.

Illia's Peoples Radical Party received about 25 per cent of the popular vote. But the 169 seats his party won in the electoral college fell 70 short of the half-plus-one majority needed to make him president.

The 476-seat college will meet July 31 to elect a president.

The country doctor from Cordoba Province has been conducting some horse trading with other parties for the additional necessary votes. He seems assured of 73. His candidacy has met with no substantial opposition from any of the other 22 parties.

Deposed President Arturo Frondizi's Intransigent Radical party, which won 109 electoral college votes, has split.

One faction offered to back Illia if he dropped his running mate, Carlos Perette, and accepted an intransigent as vice president. Illia rejected the proposal.

The other faction and former provisional President Pedro E. Aramburu's two-party coalition have remained silent.

Illia, 62, has been concentrating on winning votes from the smaller parties, some of which have a strong following in the provinces. He appears to have rallied the Conservative Federation of Center Parties—with 36 seats—to his side by offering to back a conservative for governor of Mendoza Province.

By repeating campaign promises to annual development contracts with foreign oil companies and break relations with the International Monetary Fund he has also wooed the left-wing Christian Democrats and the Argentine Socialists. Together they hold 37 electoral votes.

Assault

pletely berserk," Miller testified. After Schanuth was handcuffed he lay in the street kicking, Miller said.

Sgt. Miller recalled the previous instance involving Schanuth and Estenbaum at 5:20 p. m. Thursday. Miller said the two had been in a disturbance with some Negro boys, but that no prosecution was sought.

Officer Charlie Knapp said when he arrived at the scene, some of Schanuth's friends were attempting to put him in a station wagon. The officers explained Schanuth's friends had agreed to drive him the short distance to the police station. Knapp said Schanuth "was pretty wild" when he arrived.

Knapp said he and Officer Williams followed Estenbaum, who had retreated to Second and Lamine, cursing the officers along the way. Knapp testified when they grabbed Estenbaum he started swinging at the two officers. Knapp, however, said that he was not struck by Estenbaum.

Officer Robert Vogler, another of the arresting policemen, also testified.

Police said they were not given a call reporting the disturbance at the bar. Their first notification was when Elmer Brown, 509 West Second, entered police headquarters and reported Officer Williams needed help in front of the bar.

Testifying in regard to his complaint against the two men, Jack Morris said there was a disturbance inside the bar, a table turned over and some glasses broken, but that there was no fight.

Morris said he asked Estenbaum to leave the bar and he did. Schanuth also left with Estenbaum and the fight involving Schanuth and the unidentified man started a short time later outside of the establishment.

"I was sitting in a booth, somebody pulled me up and said I'd done something," Estenbaum testified.

Schanuth said he could not remember the disturbance inside the tavern.

The two men were held overnight in the city jail in lieu of $500 bonds. Mayor L. L. Studer recently had Judge Howerton increase bonds for persons resisting or assaulting an officer to the $500 sum.

Officer Williams was taken to Bothwell Hospital after the altercation where he was treated by Dr. R. A. Enoch and released. X-rays were taken of Williams' chest and ribs, but his injuries were not serious.

Sheriff In Address To Lions

The Sedalia Lions Club, at its meeting Wednesday, heard a talk given by Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, who spoke on the duties of the sheriff and responsibilities of the office.

Fairfax explained the sheriff is responsible for serving warrants, executions, and other papers both criminal and civil. He oversees the operation of the county jail, opens the three courts, the Magistrate, Probate and Circuit Courts when they are to be in session.

The sheriff explained jurisdiction of the office over the county and the city where there is no violations. He told the Lions the effectiveness of the sheriff's patrol he set up in the county consisting of his chief deputy, Jack Couts. He also told the group the jailer, Deputy Virgil Morris, is also on call.

All cars, Couts, Morris, and his own are equipped with two-way radios giving them constant contact with the county jail as well as with the Sedalia Police Department. "We are endeavoring to give the people of Pettis County and Sedalia service justified by the sheriff's office," Fairfax said.

Following his talk numerous questions were asked by members of the Lions on law enforcement and so on.

President Neil Chapman, presided over the meeting.

Equalization Board Session Ends Thursday

The Pettis County Board of Equalization wound up its 1963 business Thursday after having been in session ten days.

Records of the board show arguments for adjustments in assessed valuation were heard in 41 real estate cases in Sedalia, 17 on rural real estate, 18 on personal property and 31 on merchants taxes.

The board heard cases in the Pettis County courtroom and toward the last of the session made inspections of property on which valuation adjustments had been sought.

Property owners displeased with the decisions of the Board of Equalization are entitled to appear before an appeals board which will be in session Aug. 12, 13, also in the County Courtroom.

The Board of Equalization is composed of seven members with County Clerk Jim Green acting as clerk. Members are the three judges of the County Court, C. Berry Elliott, C. M. Purchase and E. L. Birdsong, County Assessor Jerry Trotter, City Assessor John Bluff, County Surveyor Keith Ekstrom and Sedalia Mayor L. L. Studer.

Setting of tax valuations on individuals who sought adjustments will not be made final until after the appeals board sits.

Southern Plan to Put Election in to the House

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — An unpledged elector movement aimed at forcing the choice of the next president by the House of Representatives appears to be withering on the political vine in Dixie.

An Associated Press survey of 11 Southern states indicates that in only three — Mississippi, Alabama and South Carolina — does there appear to be any significant possibility that major party nominees might be denied electoral votes.

Even if the sum total of 25 electoral votes of the three states were withheld — which doesn't seem likely — the action would be effective only if the next election provided the closest electoral vote outcome since the Wilson-Hughes contest of 1911. Woodrow Wilson won the presidency by a margin of 23 electoral votes.

Under the Constitution, the House selects the president only if none of the candidates receives a majority of the electoral votes. If the House renders the verdict each state delegation casts a single vote, regardless of the state's size.

Despite the closeness of the popular vote results in 1960, President Kennedy still would have been elected if the 25 had been lopped off his 303 electoral vote total. Election in 1964 will require a minimum of 270 electoral votes.

Govs. Ross Barnett of Mississippi and George Wallace of Alabama have been promoting the independent elector scheme as a means of defeating Kennedy's bid for re-election.

But Democratic politicians outside their states — and some within Wallace's — are wary of bolting Republicans, hopeful of collecting some Southern electoral votes for their party's nominee, don't like the move.

Here is how the situation shapes up on a state by state basis:

Mississippi — The unpledged elector movement, supported by Barnett, appears likely to be successful if the Republicans choose a liberal candidate.

Under state law, party conventions could put both loyalist and uncommitted delegations on the ballot of a primary to be held after the national conventions nominate their presidential candidates. The delegation which lost would be dropped from the general election ballot. It could petition its way onto that ballot, but could not use the party emblem.

Gov. Paul Johnson says the system "means the party label will be denied to those who don't represent the thinking of a majority of Mississippians."

Rubel Phillips, Republican candidate for governor, said the plan "may be useful."

Mississippi gave its nine electoral votes to the states rights ticket headed by Strom Thurmond in 1948. Its eight unpledged electors voted for Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., in 1960.

Alabama — Wallace has urged Dixie Democrats to join in a movement he says can keep either major party candidate from getting a majority of electoral votes. He said this would "create compounded confusions from which we can gain some meaningful concessions."

Despite Wallace's stand, Sens. John Sparkman and Lister Hill are expected to support the national Democratic ticket, as are several House members.

Alabama gave its 11 electoral votes to the 1948 States Rights ticket. It split its 1960 vote, giving Kennedy five and Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., six.

South Carolina — E. P. Riley, Democratic state chairman, thinks it's too early to predict whether there will be an unpledged elector movement in the state.

J. Drake Edens, Republican state chairman, said history has proved that unpledged electors may "offer some attraction in theory" but never work out.

When Thurmond was governor and headed the States Rights ticket in 1948, he got 39 electoral votes including South Carolina's eight. The state went to Kennedy in 1960.

North Carolina — Bert Bennett, Democratic state chairman, says the unpledged elector movement "is against North Carolina's way of doing things."

Robert Gavin, who recently resigned as Republican state chairman, observed: "I think the fight in 1964 is going to be between the regular Republican and the regular Democratic party."

North Carolina always has voted with either the Democratic or Republican parties.

Virginia — A bill for unpledged electors which died in the Virginia Legislature in 1962 may be offered again next year. But State Sen. Thomas H. Blanton, Democratic party chairman, said "it won't amount to much — it never amounted to anything in the past."

Walter R. Gambill, vice chairman of the state Republican party commented: "The next president of the United States will be elected by the Democrats or by the Republican party. We can't afford to be playing games with any unpledged elector movement. It's a lot of waste motion."

Virginia has not gone Democratic in a presidential election since 1948.

Tennessee — Having voted Republican in the last three elections, Tennessee no longer is considered part of the once solid South. Any movement for unpledged electors would have to come at next spring's party convention but there are no signs of any campaign for it.

'Bitter Wine' Started With Kennedy Call

NEW YORK (AP) — An unexpected telephone call from President Kennedy involved Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower in "one of the most amazing and muddled incidents in the history of inter-American affairs," the former president's brother says.

Dr. Eisenhower's book, "The Wine Is Bitter: The United States and Latin America," published by Doubleday, relates a sequel to the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba. He calls the episode "the most exasperating, frustrating and enervating six weeks of my life."

The story concerns the attempt to liberate Cuban invasion prisoners in return for $3-million worth of tractors. Eventually, a year and a half later, the cost was 20 times that much in medical supplies. Dr. Eisenhower intimates the episode nearly brought disaster on U.S. prestige.

"Fortunately," he writes, "the terrible mistakes made in the Cuban invasion and the clumsy fumbling displayed in the tractors for prisoners deal have not characterized other efforts of the Kennedy administration in the Latin American area. The moment that President Kennedy called in the ambassadors of the Latin-American republics to the White House early in 1961 to formulate an Alliance (for Progress) our efforts to seek justice for the underprivileged of Latin America through collective action have been constantly and earnestly pursued."

Most of the book concerns Dr. Eisenhower's observations as special Latin-American ambassador for President Eisenhower. But a chapter is devoted to the tractors affairs which began a month after the invasion when Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba offered to trade the prisoners.

Dr. Eisenhower says President Kennedy telephoned him May 19, 1961, and explained that Castro was sending 10 prisoners to the United States to negotiate for the release of the others. The President wanted to "establish a committee of private citizens for the sole purpose of raising funds to buy the tractors," and said he would "explain the matter to the American people the next day."

Dr. Eisenhower agreed to serve. So did the late Eleanor Roosevelt, Walter Reuther and other prominent Americans.

But, Eisenhower says, the promised presidential statement never came.

Castro suddenly began insisting that the trade be called indemnification for the invasion, and "the whole affair began to take on ominous overtones." Castro also demanded super-tractors, of little use to farmers and of likely military use, though originally he had implied he wanted farm tractors.

H. S. Walters, Democratic state chairman, says "there are a few people who are upset about the civil rights problem but by next year there won't be any feeling about it by the time the election comes around," he said.

A Dixiecrat movement failed in the state in 1948, although one elector cast his ballot for Thurmond.

Georgia — Gov. Carl E. Sanders, a moderate on the racial issue, controls the state party machinery and the Legislature. He has said he will have no part of any independent elector or third party movement.

Segregationists are trying to promote an independent elector ticket, but Democratic State Chairman J. B. Fuqua says, "I don't think it has a chance."

Agreeing, Republican State Chairman James W. Dorsey said: "I think the voters of Georgia will make a clear cut choice between the Republican and Democratic nominees."

Georgia Democrats have never bolted their party ticket.

Arkansas — Any successful independent elector movement would have to have the support of Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who gave reluctant backing to Kennedy in 1960.

Tom Harper, Democratic state chairman, and William Spicer, Republican chairman, say nobody has expressed an interest in such a movement.

Arkansas stayed with President Harry S. Truman against the Dixiecrat movement in 1948.

Louisiana — The State Senate killed a bill passed by the House to provide for unpledged electors. Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., and Rep. Gillis Long, D-La., were outspokenly against the measure.

Segregationists now are taking their fight to the state democratic central committee.

In 1948, Louisiana gave its 10 electoral votes to Thurmond. The central committee beat down 51 to 49 a move to put unpledged electors on the ballot in 1960.

Florida — An unpledged electors bill died in the 1963 State Legislature. Leaders do not expect it to be revived.

Warren Goodrich, chairman of the State Democratic Executive Committee, said he opposed the bill because it pledged electors were chosen in a spring primary they would be committed to an unknown candidate. If unpledged electors were chosen, he said the voters would be virtually disenfranchised.

State Rep. Charles Holley of St. Petersburg, a Republican with gubernatorial aspirations, said the proposal would have hurt GOP chances since the Republican presidential candidate's name would not be on the ballot.

Changes in the '63 Volkswagen.

We've always had just one engine. But this year, we're a two-engine truck. (Which is a pretty revolutionary change for a VW.)

You can choose our old faithful, air-cooled, 24 miles-to-the-gallon job. Or, for a little extra dough, our more powerful engine. (It's still air-cooled, still goes 24 miles on a gallon of regular.)

If you carry a heavy load or do a lot of driving over hilly terrain, then you'll probably want the extra power.

Another change: the new engine comes with bigger brakes. What else is new?

The driver has his own adjustable seat. (The passenger seat comes out to make more room for the cargo.)

The cab has more legroom. There's a new fresh air heater. And a new clutch.

The nice thing is, that after 13 years and 216 changes like these, you don't have to wonder what kind of shape our truck is in.

Hydrofoil Boat Crashes During Test

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—A $1.5 million experimental craft billed as the world's fastest hydrofoil crashed on a test run in Puget Sound Thursday, slightly injuring the three crewmen.

The 53-foot, twin-hulled boat, built by the Boeing Co. for the Navy, rolled over on a turn. A Boeing spokesman said the crewmen were picked up by the Coast Guard and taken to a hospital.

A floating crane was dispatched to bring the hydrofoil to shore to determine damage.

The craft, called the Fresh I, has been tested since last May. It was driven at more than 90 miles an hour last week.

The Chinese Nationalist president said free Chinese must take advantage of the Chinese-Soviet dispute by uniting and supporting "the anti-Communist uprisings now raging on the mainland."

Secrecy Creates Suspicion

Unlimited secrecy at high official levels!

You've heard that before, and you will hear it again.

Usually it refers to Washington bureaus using secrecy as a device to hide incompetence, laxity, bungling, and outright frauds in departmental areas supported by the taxpayers. This is not a partisan problem because it has occurred in Republican as well as Democratic administrations, and is related to federal spending—and you know who pays the bill.

It seems futile to attract attention to the enormous burden imposed on the taxpayers when the agencies they support indulge in methods to cover up their deficiencies.

On the national level secrecy in government affairs can be justified only when a question of security is at stake—when the release of information would aid our enemies.

In all other areas it needs to be rooted out. And we can apply this dictum to the local level where periodically star-chamber sessions of elected officials may subtly become an acceptable regimen to themselves but not to the public.

We cannot imagine the Sedalia city council, the Board of Education, the Board of Public Works, the Pettis County Court, the 12-Mile Road District, or other local administrative agencies shrouding their affairs—which are the public affairs—in an aura of secrecy.

Information concerning the activities of these local agencies on behalf of the best interests of the taxpayers, when revealed by intelligent reporting, creates public confidence in local government affairs, just as it does at the national level.

Public officials who are reluctant to expose their activities to scrutiny leave themselves open to suspicion.

Looking Backward

SALT LAKE CITY TRIBUNE: Road to the Americas.—The Inter-American Highway isn't recommended for your family vacation trip this summer but it is of considerable interest that El Carretera Interamericana is now officially open.

That the route is passable this time of year from Panama City to Mexico City is being demonstrated by a caravan of Americans, mainly highway officials from the U.S. and Canada, traveling north from Panama in air-conditioned buses. The road has been in the planning stage or under construction since the late 1920s. It will link eight republics and provide some exciting scenery and traveling experiences for tourists, but the Inter-American Highway's greatest importance will be economic. It will be a main avenue of commerce not only between but inside the nations it traverses. And while improving commerce it should also facilitate understanding.

Indelible Remarks

As if parents didn't have enough to worry about, medical science has just discovered that many school children are prone to a condition called "eraserphagia."

The name is the worst thing about it, however. It means eraser-swallowing.

The phenomenon was discovered by two radiologists (X-ray specialists) in Wheeling, W. Va., in the course of examining school students. Drs. J. L. Curry and W. J. Howland noticed little white spots scattered in the innards of the kids where white spots shouldn't he. Close questioning finally elicited a history of "nibbling" on pencil erasers in schools.

In true scientific fashion, school erasers were procured and X-rayed. More than that, in the tradition of Jenner, Pasteur, Walter Reed, the radiologists themselves swallowed some erasers. The substances—which are harmless—causing the white spots on X-ray film were identified.

The doctors, writing in the American Journal of Roentgenology, Radium Therapy and Nuclear Medicine, concluded that "Eraserphagia . . . is probably a rather common habit, particularly among school children."

They are trying to rub it out.

Kennedy Duplicates An Ike Policy

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two and a half years ago Saturday President Kennedy moved into the White House. In that time he has consistently followed a policy of trying to get along with Congress. This is an exact duplicate of President Eisenhower's policy and the exact opposite of that of Presidents Roosevelt and Truman who tried to get along until they got mad.

In Kennedy's case trying to get along with a Congress run by his own Democrats has meant avoiding fights with members of the House and Senate even when they ignored his pleas and his programs.

The result has been less than all-out fighting, on his part, for what he asked. He has reserved his get-tough tactics for problems outside Congress, particularly when they meant big domestic crises.

When the governors of Mississippi and Alabama defied federal court orders to let Negroes into their state universities, Kennedy used troops to back up the courts and brush the governors aside.

And he used the prestige of the presidency—by denouncing them—to force the steelmakers to withdraw a price increase when they tried to effect one contrary to his understanding that they wouldn't.

And in the foreign field Kennedy got about as tough as a President can get, since defiance might have meant war, when he told Premier Khrushchev to get his missiles out of Cuba. Khrushchev melted.

But Kennedy hasn't been that way with Congress.

He proposed medical care for the aged and made a total of one speech for it. The American Medical Association led the fight against it and Congress did nothing.

He asked for federal aid to public schools. Congress did nothing and Kennedy didn't try to knock any heads together.

He asked for a tax cut. Judging from the way Congress is going, that, too, may land in the ash bin. In none of these three instances did Kennedy or Congress show signs of feeling pursued by a sense of urgency or danger or the unpredictable if nothing was done. Individuals might suffer from inaction, but there was no concern about explosions.

The older people weren't going to riot in the street, the schools weren't going to close, and the economy wasn't going to collapse if taxes weren't reduced.

But it is different now with Negroes' demands for equal treatment and Kennedy's proposal to Congress to pass a law to protect their civil rights.

Now Kennedy is confronted with a critical problem which may become a crisis and truly involves Congress, for what will happen if Congress doesn't act, or simply passes a half-baked bill, is definitely unpredictable.

Kennedy has shown—in his public speeches, his broadcast to the nation, his news conference remarks and his civil rights message to Congress—that he is aware of the militant mood of Negroes and its implicit dangers if frustrated.

Even so he became aware late. He didn't send his big civil rights message to Congress until Negroes through their demonstrations forced upon the country's consciousness their determination to get equal treatment at last.

But it isn't clear yet that Congress feels the same sense of urgency he now exhibits. There Kennedy faces from his own Southern Democrats and others the most intense opposition of his 30 months as President.

Talking may not be enough. He may have to do in-fighting.

If now he gets into a slugging match with congressional foes of civil rights legislation—in order to get a law with any teeth in it at all—he will have to break the pattern of pleasant dealings he has established with Congress.

Already he may have jeopardized the support of the Southern states when he runs for re-election next year. If he gets truly tough, he may make their loss certain, a loss which might cost him the presidency in a tight race.

If he doesn't put all he has into this fight, that in turn may cost him heavily among those who will be aware of his reticence in a domestic dilemma whose outcome is unpredictable.

Mild Measures Didn't Help

US Moving Hard To Stem Drain On Dollars and Gold

By SAM SAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—The United States is moving hard on several fronts today to stem the steady drain abroad of its dollars and gold.

Mild measures in the past have not done much good. The drain is worse this year than last.

The effectiveness of the new moves—and even the adoption by Congress of the more drastic proposals—may be in doubt. But the danger is not.

Even an economic giant like the United States can't take such bleeding year after year. Since 1958, the continuing loss in its gold reserves and the buildup of dollars in foreign hands has put a strain on the value of the American dollar—a mainstay of international finance as well as the domestic economy.

The new moves now under way include:

1. Raising the Federal Reserve discount rate to discourage flow of idle short-term funds—called hot money—into foreign hands.

2. Arrangements to draw on the International Monetary Fund up to $500 million this year if needed to protect the dollar from speculative raids.

3. Pushing the Kennedy round of tariff negotiations with Europe and others to improve U.S. export chances.

4. Agreements with central banks of other nations to fight any speculative run on the dollar and to stem unusual demands on the U.S. Treasury for more of its gold.

The gold outflow has ebbed this year, but efforts to halt the bleeding of dollars has proved inadequate.

These have included comparatively minor measures, such as curbing spending by U.S. dependents abroad and taxing goods in excess of $100 value brought back by U.S. tourists, and urging private business to try to export more.

So now Congress is being asked to approve a tax on sale of foreign securities in our markets.

The drain from investments by Americans in foreign securities or in plants abroad has been accompanied this year by a drop in return investment here by foreigners.

This drain is just one of the many that has built up foreign holdings of dollar assets to a huge total of claims that could become a threat to the dollar's integrity, if all or a sizable part were called at once.

The balance of payment drain—the excess of dollars flowing abroad over those returning—runs like this: In 1958 the deficit was $3.4 billion; $3.8 billion in 1959; $3.9 billion in 1960; $2.8 billion in 1961; $2.2 billion in 1962.

The decline in the deficit has been reversed this year. In the first quarter it was running at an annual rate of $3.2 billion.

The National Foreign Trade Council today predicts that the whole year will see a loss of $3 billion. At the first of this year it had expected a drop to $2 billion.

But this year imports have been rising, and exports haven't advanced as fast. Last year the excess of exports over imports gave us a favorable balance of $4.3 billion. Dollar losses elsewhere, however, erased this, and turned it into the $2.2 billion deficit.

These dollar outflows include private and government investment abroad; foreign aid, both economic and military; tourist spending, rising still higher this year.

Central banks of other nations can turn in these excess dollars for gold. This has caused the market drop in Treasury reserves in recent years.

In 1952 the Treasury had more than $23 billion in gold. As late as 1958 it had $22 billion. Today it has less than $15.7 billion. About $12 billion of that is legally required to back American currency. The remainder is called free gold—available to meet foreign demands or fight off any speculative runs.

This year the pact with other central banks has helped hold the gold loss well below former years. But the pile of dollar assets held abroad hangs over the dollar and the gold reserves and the pile is growing.

The Doctor's Mailbag

Ringworm, Other Skin Ills Require Exacting Care

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—Is ringworm primarily a fungus condition or a blood condition? How can I get rid of it? Is it the same as athlete's foot?

A—Ringworm is a fungus disease that may attack any part of the skin but it has a marked preference for parts that are moist. For this reason it is common in the groin and in the feet where it is called athlete's foot. Many persons who are not in the least athletic also get it. A new fungicide, chloroxylenol, has proved very effective in some persons who have used it.

Recent studies indicate that in some persons rod-shaped bacteria rather than a fungus cause athlete's foot. This would account for the failure of some victims to get relief from any of the fungicides and for their cure by other drugs.

It all boils down to what I have said many times in the past: First, find the exact cause. When this is done the treatment prescribed by your doctor is often surprisingly easy. But always, you must keep your feet as dry as possible as much of the time as possible.

Q—For several weeks I have had a salty taste in my mouth. I've checked with my dentist and have used different kinds of mouthwash but nothing seems to help. What could cause this?

A—This rather baffling symptom is observed in some persons who smoke excessively. If you smoke try cutting it out for four or five weeks and see whether the salty taste disappears. Cutting out smoking will give you other dividends as well. On the other hand, the taste may be due to an acid saliva in contact with an amalgam filling, but such a cause would have been discovered by your dentist. In a few persons sleeping with the mouth open is associated with a salty taste.

If you are taking medicines that contain ammonium or calcium chloride, sodium or potassium iodide, or sodium bicarbonate, this could be the cause. If you are not taking any of these try cutting down or eliminating table salt from your diet for a week and see if that will not help you.

Q—What would cause me to feel pain in a leg that was taken off 10 years ago?

A—Nearly every person who has an amputation has some painful sensation of the nerve that supplied the lost leg. This is called phantom leg pain. In most persons this clears up in a few months. Operations to further remove sensory pathways to or in the brain have been attempted when the pain is persistent and severe, but the results are often disappointing.

Q—My sister has a craving to eat raw rolled oats. She is gaining weight. Is it harmful to eat rolled oats raw?

A—Rolled oats may be eaten raw without harm, but an excessive gain in weight is harmful and the rolled oats may be a contributing factor.

We the Women

A Time to Keep Your Head

By Ruth Millett
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The wife finds out that her husband is seeing another woman on his regular business trips to another city—after more than 25 years of marriage.

What should the wife do? Above all else, she should use her head.

Her pride may tell her to threaten to leave him and show him that he can't treat her like that and get away with it. But if she'll listen to her head, she will get better advice.

Her head will say: "I've put 25 years into this marriage. Why should I pull out of it now and turn over my long-term investment to another woman?"

Her head will say: "Pride is a fine thing and the young may be able to afford it. But what is it going to get me, except the momentary satisfaction of making a fine, dramatic gesture?"

There's no time in a marriage when it is as important for a woman to keep her head as when her husband has lost his.

And the longer the marriage has lasted the greater the woman's investment in it—and, therefore, the more important it is for her to use her head when it is threatened.

The woman who remembers that can figure out a way to handle almost any marriage problem. The danger is in listening to pride rather than to hard, common sense.

Mob Rule At Young Republican Meet

By DREW PEARSON

NEW YORK — Behind the tough statement issued by Gov. Nelson Rockefeller against Sen. Barry Goldwater and his right wing crusade were some alarming reports regarding Fascist tactics used by Goldwaterites at the recent Young Republicans' convention in San Francisco.

At the convention mob rule broke out, right-wingers tried to seize the gavel of the moderate president, and police had to be called in to restore order when playing the National Anthem failed to keep the Goldwaterites standing at attention so they would not rush the rostrum.

The Senator himself, addressing the convention, did nothing to calm the radical right or disassociate himself from the John Birchites behind the Fascist tactics.

"I had told him about the rioting that occurred earlier in the day and asked for his aid in calming the situation," Leonard Nadasy, retiring president of the Young Republicans told this column. "He promised to try to calm the crowd. But the only mention he made of the situation was to comment about the great spirit of the delegates. It was like pouring gasoline on the flames."

"Go Back to Russia"

Nadasy has been president of the Young Republicans for two years. The organization has a membership of around half a million and traditionally follows a policy of steering clear of intra-party battles. When Nadasy tried to continue that policy, right wing Republicans shouted: "Go back to Russia."

He was trying at that time to enforce a provision in the Young Republicans' constitution that state delegates only may vote in the election of officers, not the alternates. The Goldwater backers and the radical right wanted alternates included under a unit rule provision in order to elect David Lukens, the Goldwater candidate.

When Nadasy ruled this out of order, pandemonium broke loose.

"Several members of the California delegation tried to rush the rostrum in order to take the gavel away," Nadasy told this column, "but fortunately members of the Pennsylvania and New York delegations, located in front of the rostrum, held them off."

"There were fist fights on the floor," he said. "I've never seen such violence at a political affair. Their goal was to completely confuse everybody. There was screaming and hollering. It was like a nightmare."

John Birch Platform

Opposing Lukens for the Young GOP presidency was Charles McDevitt of Boise, Idaho, who followed the traditional policy of taking no stand for Goldwater, Rockefeller, Romney or any other candidate.

Lukens was from Washington, D. C., had been carefully picked by the Goldwater crowd, and campaigned on a John Birch platform, though he states he is not a member. He is for the abolition of the income tax, favors U. S. withdrawal from the United Nations, wants to subjugate the U. S. Supreme Court by adopting a higher court of state justices. "After observing his first platform," said retiring President Nadasy, "he seemed to be saying exactly what the Birchites wanted him to say."

Two Republican congressmen came to San Francisco to help the radical right and the Goldwaterites, Nadasy said — W. E. (Bill) Brock, the Chattanooga candy manufacturer who was elected with John Birch support; and John M. Ashbrook of Ohio. "They spent a great deal of time working behind the scenes to elect the Goldwater candidate," Nadasy said, "even though it is an accepted fact that regular party members stay out of our elections."

"I want to alert the Republicans as to the real objective of the John Birch Society and the radical right, namely to subvert the Republican party and seize control," said the retiring president. "The radical right is just like the Communists. They drive good people away."

Word of these right wing tactics which got back to Gov. Rockefeller was one of the reasons he issued his warning blast against Sen. Goldwater and his operations.

Throw Out Bobby

Jack Leonard, the TV comedian, table-hopping at Danny's Hide-A-Way the other night, got this one off on the Kennedy family.

"The President and Bobby were flying across the country with Lyndon Johnson, when the President asked for a ten dollar bill and threw it out the window."

"What are you doing that for?" Bobby asked.

"Some farmer will pick it up and it'll make him happy," Jack replied.

"So Bobby called for ten singles and threw them out the window. 'That'll make more people happy,' he said."

"So Lyndon Johnson came back and whispered to the President, 'Why not throw Bobby out? Then everyone'll be happy.'"

Jane Russell Still Draws Weekly Pay

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jane Russell hasn't made a movie in six years—and couldn't care less. No wonder.

Every week, she gets a $1,000 check from the Hughes Tool Co. and she hasn't heard from her boss, Howard Hughes, in years.

"Every now and then I hear some scuttlebutt that he's going to make movies again but that's as far as it goes," says Jane. "The checks, though, are never late."

In 1955, Jane signed a million-dollar contract with Hughes that was to be paid over 20 years. The 20-year spread keeps the taxes low and the security steady.

"Also," says Jane, "I can do any other kind of work I want—even other movies. But I just don't care to work. I just like being around the house with my husband and children."

Most of her time is spent with WAIF, the international adoption agency which she founded. So far, WAIF has placed 11,000 homeless children in homes.

"It helps me—and I hope the public—forget my early cheesecake curse," says Jane.

Jane was the most celebrated cheesecake specimen in the business at a time when Marilyn Monroe was unknown and Jayne Mansfield was riding a bicycle to school.

The years have been kind to Jane's figure. If anything, she is prettier and sexier-looking now than when she started.

Occasionally, she works for fun. She and two close friends, Connie Haines and London-born Beryl Davis, have formed a nightclub act which opens Aug. 5 at the Riviera Hotel in Las Vegas.

Beauty Program Is Given Before Jaycees' Wives

Personnel from Heavlin's House of Beauty presented the program July 16 for members of Jaycee Wives at Liberty Park.

Mrs. Allen Hawkins, program chairman, introduced the following who gave demonstrations on recent hair styling and cosmetology: Mrs. Aline Walker and her students, Miss Violet Barge, Miss Susan Surke, Miss Mary Martin, Miss Diane Foster, Miss Beverly Gatewood, Miss Marsha Sheef and Olin Rush.

Mrs. Bob Withers presided. The Soap Box Derby queen contest was reported a success by Mrs. Walt Schroeder, chairman. Cookies left from the queen contest will be presented to the Children's Therapy Center.

Jaycee Wives decided to assist Jaycees with a concession for the Sidewalk Bazaar. Members will also help with the annual chicken barbecue.

Guests were: District vice president, Mrs. Clem Darrow, Mrs. Charles Bull, Mrs. James Shirley, Mrs. Elmo Triplett, Mrs. Jack Murphy, Mrs. Bill Hancock, Mrs. Betty Brounger and daughter, Diane.

Mrs. Jewell Foster became a new member.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, July 19, the 200th day of 1963. There are 165 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1848, the first woman's rights convention in the United States was held at Seneca Falls, N.Y. The movement was formally instituted as a national question under leadership of Lucretia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

On this date: In 1775, the Fifth Indiana War in Maine began when Indians launched their first attack on St. George and New Castle.

In 1845, New York City was the scene of a fire which destroyed 345 buildings at a loss of $6 million.

In 1918, the German army began its retreat across the Marne during World War I.

In 1940, President Franklin Roosevelt signed the two-ocean Navy bill.

In 1955, the Railway Express Agency retired its last electric delivery truck.

Ten years ago... Communist negotiators announced their readiness to resume full-scale talks aimed at completing arrangements for a Korean armistice.

Five years ago... Through Red Cross efforts, nine U.S. Army men were released by East Germany after being held for six weeks when their helicopter landed in Communist territory by error.

One year ago... All 26 persons aboard were killed in the crash of a United Arab Republic Comet jetliner near Bangkok in Thailand.

Complains Ex-Wife Bars the Steamroom

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Kurt Frings, Elizabeth Taylor's agent, complained to Superior Court Judge Burnett Wolfson Wednesday that his estranged wife, playwright Ketti Frings, has played a court order by excluding him from the steamroom at their Beverly Hills home.

She left the state, he said, after changing the locks on the building.

Mrs. Frings has a separate maintenance suit pending. Last April the couple agreed that she would occupy their home but that Frings would have limited steam bath privileges.

Guests were: District vice president, Mrs. Clem Darrow, Mrs. Charles Bull, Mrs. James Shirley, Mrs. Elmo Triplett, Mrs. Jack Murphy, Mrs. Bill Hancock, Mrs. Betty Brounger and daughter, Diane.

Mrs. Jewell Foster became a new member.

PREHISTORIC PET—Artisans at the Disneyland shops in Anaheim, Calif., are now building prehistoric giants like this triceratops. Other realistic monsters are being reproduced to be used in the Ford Magic Skyway trip through time which will be a highlight of the New York World's Fair. The building process involves a plaster of paris cast from a clay model. Plaster sections are lined with a plastic liquid which hardens to become the hide of the beast. Admiring the completed work of sculptor George H. Snowden is Wendy Anderson, who seems to be marveling at the fork-faced fellow with the sunbonnet armor.

Parachute Jumper Falls to His Death

MANVILLE, N.J. (AP)—A parachute jumper fell more than a mile to his death Wednesday night when his main chute failed to open, State Police said.

He was John Maurice, 25, formerly of New York, who lived near Decker Airport. Police said his reserve chute opened too late to check his fall.

State Trooper Peter Duimstra said Maurice was practicing target jumping at the airport just south of here. He jumped from 5,600 feet and smashed into a wheat field 200 yards from the target.

Short Skirts Puzzle

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—The Rev. N. J. Ezekiel, head of the Lutheran Church of India, is puzzled by one aspect of American life.

"With so much wealth in your country, with so much money to buy beautiful cloth," he said Wednesday at a church conference, "I'm surprised American girls and women wear their skirts so short."

Says Indians Have Wrong Idea of U.S.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The people of India are not aware of the great number of Negroes in the United States, the head of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of India said Wednesday.

They picture "a very, very small number of Negroes discriminated against by white people in America," said the Rev. N. J. Ezekiel, who is here to address the Women's Missionary League Conference.

"After seeing how many Negroes live here, I am not amazed at your country's race problems," he said, adding he was surprised to meet many Negroes who are professionally employed.

"I thought the American Negroes were all maids or servants of some kind. But I have met Negro pastors, doctors, lawyers and others in professional fields."

Podres Key Man For the Dodgers

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
It is generally acknowledged that Sandy Koufax has been consistently sensational, Don Drysdale has been sporadically spectacular and Ron Perranoski has been absolutely superb.

But the key pitcher in the Los Angeles Dodgers' quest for their first National League pennant since 1959 is southpaw Johnny Podres, the elder statesman of the staff.

The author of this sage observation is no less an authority than Alvin Dark, manager of San Francisco's defending champion Giants who today found themselves looking up at the run-away Dodgers from a fourth place position eight full games below.

It happened during the All-Star break. The Giants were then in second place, just three games behind the Dodgers. Podres, after a dull first 2½ months in which he lost more than he won, had righted himself and pitched two sparkling victories.

"The National League race will go right down to the wire again unless Podres stays hot," Dark commented. "But if he keeps on pitching like he has lately it will be awfully tough to catch them."

Podres appears on the way to making the Giant pilot a true prophet.

In the past eight days, Podres has added three victories extending his winning streak to five in a row for an over-all 9-6 record.

His performance Thursday night in the Dodgers' 10-5 triumph over Pittsburgh was not as impeccable as were his other victories during the streak. But he allowed only one run until Roberto Clemente tagged him for a two-run homer in the seventh inning.

By that time the Dodgers had built up a 10-3 lead and virtually were assured of protecting their 6½ game margin over the runner-up Chicago Cubs, who earlier had beaten the Milwaukee Braves 3-2.

Cincinnati defeated St. Louis 6-3 to drop the third place Cardinals a game behind the Cubs. San Francisco clung to its one-game edge over the fifth place Reds by coming from behind to nip the New York Mets 6-5 and Philadelphia trounced Houston 5-1.

Maury Wills, back in his Most Valuable Player form of last year, drove in four runs with a single and double. The Dodgers hammered loser Earl Francis and four relievers for 14 hits but actually it was five unearned runs in a big sixth inning that proved to be the difference.

The Mets overcame a 4-0 San Francisco lead, going ahead on Joe Hicks' three-run homer in the seventh, but run-scoring singles by pinch hitter Felipe Alou and Harvey Kuenn produced the tying and winning Giant runs. Juan Marichal blanked the Mets in the eighth and ninth innings to receive credit for his 15th victory.

Gene Freese, recalled from San Diego a week ago, drove in four tallies with a single and a two-run homer to spark the Reds' victory over the Cardinals.

John Boomer went all the way, limiting the Colts to three hits for his first major league victory as the Phillies won their ninth in the last 12 games. Don Demeter and Don Hoak hit two-run homers.

Larry Jackson, with the help of relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel, gained his 11th triumph in 18 decisions for the Cubs, who got all their runs off Milwaukee's Tony Cloninger in the sixth.

Take Or Leave Clay But Can Run Him Off

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—It appears you can take or leave Cassius Clay, but you can't get rid of him.

Heavyweight champion Sonny Liston agreed to this today after an unscheduled and quite unsolicited visit by capricious Cassius to the Liston training camp Thursday.

If nothing else, it did offer some comedy relief from the bore of routine training as Liston and ex-champion Floyd Patterson neared the end of the grind for Monday night's title rematch. Cassius spent a better part of an hour heckling the awesome champ—from a safe distance, of course.

WORDS—Jimmy Piersall of the New York Mets exchanges a few words with Umpire Allen Forman at the Polo Grounds in New York. They are debating whether a pitch was in the strike zone.

Merchants To Finish Tune Ups

The Sedalia Merchants will play the final tune-up game of the season with Whiteman AFB Saturday night at Liberty Park before they go on to defend their semi-pro state baseball crown.

This will be the fourth meeting of the Merchants and Whiteman with the Merchants taking two of the three games. The first meeting went to Whiteman 6-3 with the Merchants rebounding to take the next two games 10-9 and 9-0.

Skip Schultz, Bob Brown, John Nelson, and Jim Fall will split the pitching chore for this game.

So far this season the Merchants are 14-7 including Tuesday night's blasting at the hands of Pleasant Hill, 16-5. Pleasant Hill hit six long balls that night while Bill Dey had the Merchants' only extra base hit, a double to left field.

The lineup for the Merchants Saturday looks like this:

Crane	Centerfield
Dey	Leftfield
Morgan	Rightfield
Fall	First Base
Thomas	Second Base
Higgins	Third Base
Horne	Shortstop
Hill	Catcher
Schultz	Pitcher

Large Field Expected In Coast Race

Associated Press Sports Writer
Another large field is expected for the $100,000-added Hollywood Juvenile Championship Saturday at Hollywood Park, and the management may have to split the 2-year-old event into two divisions again as in 1962.

The Juvenile, at six furlongs, and the $100,000-added Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct are the major stakes on the Saturday program.

A year ago when 22 were entered for the Hollywood Juvenile, it was split into two sections, each worth $75,000-added. They grossed $102,100 each, and J. K. Houssels, Nevada hotel man, collected $138,200. His Colts, Y Flash and Noti, each earned $69,100 by taking both sections.

There are 15 probable, and four possible starters Saturday, including Greentree Stable's Malicious, Clark and Radovich's Wil Rad, Suisun Stable's Nevada Bin, and Harbor View Farm's Count Bud, an invader from New York.

Malicious beat Nevada Bin in the second division of the Howard Stakes last week, after Close By took the opening section.

Special Game Slated In Little League

A special game is slated for the Little League majors stadium in Liberty Park at 8 p.m. Saturday.

The game will be a match between the American and National League All-Stars, getting them in shape for the Area 2 Little League Tournament Monday night in Concordia.

Managing the National League All-Stars will be Doyle Waisner, who is manager of the Lions team during regular season play. Richard Phillips, Elks manager, will have charge of the American All-Stars.

In the Concordia tourney, Sedalia's American All-Stars will face the Lafayette County All-Stars at 7 p.m. Monday, with Sedalia's National League Stars to meet the Whiteman AFB Little League All-Stars at 8:30 p.m.

There will be no games played in the Sedalia Little League majors on Monday night, since there are boys from almost all of the teams playing on all-star teams.

The winners of the Monday night tourney games will face teams from Clinton and Columbia in games Tuesday night, with the winners there to face each other Wednesday night in the championship game.

The winner of the Concordia tourney will play the champions of the Area 1 Little League Tournament at Carrollton in the first week of August.

If one of the Sedalia teams should continue to win for six tournaments, they could participate in the Little League World Series later in the summer.

In case either one of the Sedalia All-Star teams win at Concordia on Monday night, play in the majors at Sedalia's Liberty Park will be cancelled for the entire week, according to Little League officials.

Lowry City Can't Field 9 Players

Lowry City failed to field nine players against the Sedalia Ban Johnson Chiefs Thursday night at Liberty Park diamond, hence losing the game by forfeit.

The visitors, however, borrowed Jim Haskell from the Chiefs to play right field and the two teams played a seven-inning exhibition contest which Sedalia won 2-1.

Ernie Dow stretched a long hit into an inside-the-park home run to give Sedalia the victory. Lowry City's catcher was shaken up in the play at the plate as Dow slid home, but the Lowry City team was not seriously hurt.

Terry Fletcher worked the distance on the mound for the Sedalia Chiefs, but won't be able to claim an official win due to the forfeit.

The Chiefs see action at home Sunday night at 8 p.m. as they meet Carrollton at Liberty Park diamond.

Little League play will see Lions playing Adco and Moose versus Elks in both the A's at Centennial Park and the "majors" at Liberty Park. Adco is pitted against Rotary in the B and C league games at Housel Park. Games at all three parks begin at 6 p.m.

Lumps Ahead For Upstart Dick Hart

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — No less an authority than Arnold Palmer thinks the early work will get the birdie at the Dallas Athletic Club course today, which could mean lumps ahead for upstart Dick Hart and smooth sailing for Julius Boros in the second round of the Professional Golfers Association championship.

"Julius is in a perfect position with that 69," Palmer said after his opening round 74—marked by four three-putt greens—dropped the 4-1 favorite eight strokes behind the 27-year-old Hart's brilliant 66 Thursday.

"He was about the only late starter who survived those greens after they got all chopped up by the traffic," Palmer said. "He has a nice, early starting time for the second round and the greens ought to give him a much smoother ride."

Only Tony Lema, among those figured to stay in contention, also played well as a late starter in the huge, 167-player field that opened the 72-hole medal play scramble at the heat-seared Dallas Athletic Club course.

Tony shot a one-under-par 70 on the 7,046-yard, par 36-35 71 lay-out despite a double bogey five at the 16th.

"I shocked myself with my putting," Lema said. "Arnie's right—it's impossible to put on those greens in the afternoon after 100 or more guys have tramped over them. I don't know how I got the ball in the hole."

It was on the 16th, a 216-yard, par 3 test with a small pond snuggling up close to the green, that Hart made the most spectacular shot of a first round in which eagles were almost routine and birdies came by the carload on several holes.

Hart, an assistant pro at the Hinsdale, Ill., golf club, was three-under-par as he stood at the 16th. He pulled out a four-iron and one swing of the club later he was five-under. His beautifully hit shot struck a few feet short of the hole, and trickled straight into the cup for only the second hole-in-one in modern PGA history.

His fantastic 66, only one stroke off the course record, gave him a three-stroke lead over Boros, the 1963 National Open champion, Masters champion Jack Nicklaus, British Open champion Bob Charles, Mason Rudolph and Shelly Mayfield, now a club pro at Dallas' Brook Hollow Country Club. Each of the five fired a 69 but all except Boros and Mayfield started play early in the dawn-to-dark firing.

Of those at 70, Earl Stewart, Doug Ford, and Bernie Haas of Pittsburgh had the benefit of the greens that weren't heavily tracked. Bruce Crampton, Lema and Chuck Congdon, 50, of Tacoma, got their 70s in the afternoon.

"These greens are bent grass, very unusual for this hot area said Palmer, whose 74 left him tied well back in the pack with his little buddy from South Africa, Gary Player. "They are wonderful when they aren't getting heavy play. When the field is out after Friday to the low 75, the traffic won't be so heavy, they won't be so marked up, and everything ought to be fine. But right now, they're awful for anybody going out in the afternoon because the spike marks don't fill back in within a short time like they do on bent greens in the North."

Overpowers Batters

Radatz Ups His Record to 11-1

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dick Radatz is a huge bruiser who overpowers the batters with his speed and strength.

Bill Dailey is a stringbean type who deceives the batters with his sneaky sidearm deliveries.

And Stu Miller is a slender veteran who tantalizes the batters with some of the slowest pitches ever seen.

They don't look alike and they don't work alike, but they rate alike—in the upper echelon of American League relief pitchers. Each gave another strong performance Thursday in victories for Boston, Minnesota and Baltimore.

Radatz ran his record to a remarkable 11-1 with two scoreless innings as the Red Sox thumped the Kansas City Athletics 10-6. Dailey held New York hitless over the last three innings in the Twins' 9-3 rout of the front-running Yankees. And Miller won at Detroit, 8-6, on Joe Gajnes' 11th-inning pinch double in the only other game on the league schedule.

Radatz received credit for the victory at Kansas City with his two-inning stint, in which he gave up one single and one walk.

The Red Sox rushed ahead with four runs in the first against Ed Rakow and scored three more in the fourth off rookie Dale Willis. But the A's scrapped back against Chet Nichols and Jack Lamabe with a spurt of extra-base hits, including two homers by Norm Siebern, and it was 7-6 after six.

Carl Yastrzemski and Roman Mejias gave Radatz more of a cushion with homers in the ninth. Dailey protected right-hander Camilo Pascual's first victory since June 12 by holding the Yanks hitless the last three innings—and Rich Rollins made it a romp for the Twins with a two-run homer in the seventh and a three-run double in the eighth.

Pascual, whose ailing back had limited him to three innings of pitching since he had last won, left in the sixth with the Twins

Cards, A's Given First Inning Jolts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The St. Louis Cardinals and the Kansas City Athletics got first inning jolts Thursday night and never recovered.

The Cardinals got their jolt from the bat of Gene Freese, who led the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-3 win over the Cardinals.

Kansas City's blow came on a four-run first inning by the Red Sox and Boston went on to win 10-6.

Freese homered with two teammates aboard in the first inning. He also drove in a run in the Reds' two-run third.

The Cardinals' biggest threat came in the seventh, but Jim Owens, in relief of starter Bob Purkey, came on with two outs and the bases loaded to retire the side after one run had scored.

At Kansas City, the Red Sox scored four runs in the first inning, three in the fourth and closed out the game with a pair of homers for three runs.

Dick Radatz picked up his 11th win of the year for the Red Sox in relief. Chet Nichols started for Boston. Ed Rakow was the loser. Jerry Lumpe had three hits and Gino Cimoli, George Alusik and Norm Siebern two each. Siebern's two—both home runs—accounted for three runs batted in.

Ray Sadecki was the starter and loser for St. Louis with Purkey getting credit for the Reds victory.

The Cards move to Houston tonight with Ernie Broglio starting against the Colts Don Nottebart.

Kansas City opens a series with Baltimore. Orlando Pena is expected to start for the A's with Dave McNally going for the Orioles.

ahead 4-3. Jim Roland and Jim Perry finished up that inning, then Dailey came on and allowed one Yankee base runner the rest of the way—on a walk.

Minnesota got its first four runs off Ralph Terry, the Yanks' 23-game winner of last year who now is 9-10. Elston Howard had a homer off Pascual, now 10-5.

Miller, a wheelhorse who has pitched in 43 of the Orioles' 96 games, evened his record at 4-4 with the aid of key hitting by John Orsino and Gaines.

The Tigers raked Mike McCormick and Dick Hall for a 5-0 lead in the first three innings. Baltimore pecked away for a tie then Billy Bruton tripled in a run off Miller in the last of the eighth for a 6-5 Detroit edge.

But Orsino homered in the ninth knotting the score again. Gaines socked his two-run pinch double batting for Miller in the 11th, and George Brunet held off the Tigers in their last turn at bat. Rookie Bill Faul was the loser.

Little League Round Hot As Weather

The baseball and weather were both hot in the Little League majors at Liberty Park Thursday night.

Winning the first majors game was the Jaycees team, taking a 12-3 win off Rotary. Terry Hudson was the winner for Jaycees, and Jim Wanserski was the losing pitcher. Mike Herbst clobbered a homer for Jaycees in that game.

Sedalia Ice duplicated the Jaycees scoring effort, taking a 12-3 win from Optimist in the second game. Larry Brownfield took the mound win for Ice, with Sam Gravitt chalking up the loss. Ice's Tom Martin added to the scoring with a home run.

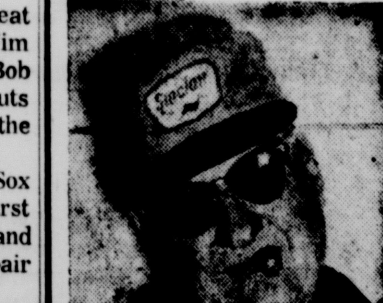

In the A's, Ice took a 17-14 victory from Optimist, with Kent Cordy walking away with the pitching laurels, and Perry Ream taking the pitching loss.

Jaycees edged Rotary 4-3 in the second "A" game at Centennial Park. Bill Jolly was the Jaycees pitcher, while Terry Sinn hurled for Rotary.

In their first win of the year, Moose defeated Kiwanis 7-4 in "B" league play at Housel Park. Wayne Bailey was the winning pitcher for Moose, while Greg Voss was the loser.

The score was 29-4 at the close of the "C" league game, with Kiwanis taking the solid win from Moose. Jim Sanders pitched the win for Kiwanis, and Don Vinson was the losing pitcher for Moose.

Ailing Girl, Skinny One Lead Field

CINCINNATI (AP)—A girl with an ailing back and one who weighs in at only 95 pounds led the field today into the second round of the 1963 Women's National Open Golf Tournament.

They are Mary Mills, a 23-year-old blonde from Gulf Hills, Miss., and Clifford Ann Creed, a tiny 24-year-old brunette from Alexandria, La. Each had a 2-under-par 71 Thursday over the Kenwood Country Club's 6,444 yards of hilly terrain.

Far back in the field and threatened with elimination after today's round was defending champion Mrs. Muriel Lindstrom of Sutton, Mass. Mrs. Lindstrom, who hasn't been playing regularly, had a 10-over-par 83.

It appeared it would take a two-day total of around 161 to survive the halfway mark cut in the field. Only the 40 low scorers and ties will be eligible for Saturday's final 36 holes.

The tournament, with a $9,000 purse, will pay $2,000 to the winner.

For the most part, the big name pros among the golfing gals will have their work cut out for them. Most of them were four strokes or more off the pace.

Two exceptions were Ruth Jensen of Bonsall, Calif., and Louise Suggs of Delray Beach, Fla. They, along with wise-cracking Judy Kimball of Sioux City, Iowa, were only one stroke behind with 72s.

Miss Mills, who says she is "OVER LAND, OVER SEA . . ."—When this new military vehicle runs aground, it keeps right on going. The craft rides on two rotary metal pontoons fitted with spiral blades that move it forward, backwards and even sideways. The blades clean themselves as they dig into swampy bogs, snow or soft earth. Weighing about a ton, the craft, called the Marsh Screw Amphibian by designers at Chrysler Corp., reaches its top speed in deep snow, about 20 miles an hour. Speed in muck is about 10 miles an hour. It is shown during initial tests in the swamp and bayou country of Alabama and Louisiana.

TUNE ON THE STRIP—It's a strange sight but Richard W. Truffer is a man who makes the best of any situation. He was moving a piano when it fell out of his truck into a median strip in Baltimore. While waiting for another truck he played the piano.

Reuther Calls For Stronger Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—Walter P. Reuther urged Congress today to strengthen President Kennedy's civil rights program.

Among other things, he suggested direct payment of damages to persons discriminated against in public facilities.

"Not only the patron but the public-spirited proprietor will benefit from an enforceable public accommodations measure," Reuther told a House Judiciary subcommittee.

Reuther, president of the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers, said the President's proposals provided "a strong first step" towards guaranteeing "all Americans equality in law and equality in fact."

He told the congressmen in his prepared statement:

"Your committee cannot do less than he has asked; we urge it to do more."

Among other proposals which Reuther said the group should add to the President's seven-point civil rights package were:

1. A federal fair employment practices commission;
2. Federal voting registrars "who will make the right to vote an American reality";
3. Broad authorization for the attorney general to "protect all constitutional rights of Negroes"; and
4. An immediate start in all school districts on desegregation.

The Judiciary subcommittee hearings, which began shortly after Kennedy submitted his program June 19, marked the only congressional action on the civil rights front today. The Senate Commerce and Judiciary committees are in recess until next week.

In his vigorous backing of the public accommodations proposal, which would outlaw discrimination in privately owned businesses serving the public, Reuther stressed the need for "a strong bill (that) will let those who open their facilities to everyone, do so with confidence that others will have to do likewise."

"Toward this end, we would urge that the committee consider, in addition to the sanctions now in the bill, providing that anyone who has been wrongfully excluded from a public facility be entitled to recover a flat sum in damages."

"Discrimination in public facilities has been a national disgrace for far too long," Reuther said. "By ending it now, by protecting every human being from Maine

"considered along hither" hit 15 of the 18 greens in regulation figures but she hasn't been playing much because of an ailment in the lower lumbar region of her back.

"I still can't get the leverage I should have on my swing," she said.

to California against the colossal indignity of a refusal of service, the 88th Congress will only be catching up at long last with the 44th Congress."

That Congress passed a similar law in 1875, but it was declared unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court in 1883.

Noting congressional debate over whether the public accommodations proposal should have its legal basis on the Constitution's commerce clause or the 14th Amendment, Reuther said:

"I am sure the Negro and his family who have been travelling all day don't care much for the legal quibble whether the right to a night's lodging is based on one or the other."

Attacking the argument that the bill interferes with property rights, Reuther said property rights, while important, "must never be permitted to overshadow human rights and human dignity."

He urged the committee to reject any amendment that might limit the size or type of establishment covered.

Reuther called the rate of school desegregation since the Supreme Court's 1954 decision "a national disgrace" and supported the Kennedy proposal to provide technical assistance, grants and loans to school boards to help in desegregating or adjusting racial imbalance.

"We cannot accept 21st century integration; we cannot accept 1970 integration," he said. "We need school integration now."

Reuther also supported other provisions in the administration package and said "together they add impetus to the drive to build a better America respected throughout the world."

In another development, it was disclosed Thursday that President Kennedy has sent a personal appeal to the presidents of all school boards in the country, asking "your help in solving the grave civil rights problems faced by this nation."

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Williams, R-Del., cited in the Senate Thursday what he called examples of the "imaginings" of the men on President Kennedy's New Frontier.

Williams said the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has approved research grants providing:

1. $46,731 for a study of the "regulation of development of the mouse egg."
2. $9,740 for a study of the "physiological adaptation of the Mexican free-tailed bat."
3. $4,120 to promote a study of the "effects of frustration on a reflex response."

Politicians And Squirrels Have Something In Common

EDITOR'S note: Politicians and squirrels have something in common—at least the squirrels in the following fable. Red on, and get a rabbits-eye view of living on a family budget.

By ARTHUR EDSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Political fables for our time, or, a lazy man's guide to national issues:

How To Win Friends

Once there were two squirrels, Wilbur and Ezekiel.

From nesthood, Wilbur seemed marked for great squirrelhood.

It was he who launched the campaign to hide more acorns so more mighty oaks would from little acorns grow.

It was he who devised the plan to scare the sneaky cat by dropping nuts at him from high places.

It was Wilbur who first made the daring leap to the wire that led to the birdfeeder and the sunflower seed.

"A natural born leader," the other squirrels said.

Zeke was a howza squirrel.

"Howza girl? Howza boy?" he would ask, smiling affably the living day.

"You can't help liking Zeke," the other squirrels said.

Both ran for the same office the same year, and while every-one agreed Wilbur was one smart squirrel, there was some discord.

Someone pointed out that some-times the birdfeeder was empty.

Another remembered the cat still prowled about.

Still another doubted the wis-dom of planting those acorns, since oaks grow so slowly. "An acorn in the jaw is worth two und-

Nature's Big Show Will Attract Many

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nature's big show Saturday — a total eclipse of the sun — will draw one of the biggest scientific audiences in history and have a barrage of rockets for an over-tune.

The experts, however, won't view the awesome sight as just a spectacular. They hope to get information that may reduce the hazards of space travel and im-prove weather forecasting and communications.

Because of the eclipse's path more people than ever before will glimpse at least part of the eclipse. Most Americans, though, will see only a partial eclipse.

It will be total only along a 60 mile-wide path across Alaska, Canada and Maine.

And only in these areas may it be viewed safely with the naked eye, for elsewhere the perfor-mance will be too brilliant.

Health authorities have urged all but scientists with special equipment to turn their backs on it, lest their eyes be permanently damaged.

The recommendation is to watch the big show on television or use cardboard reflectors. To do this, you punch a small hole in a piece of cardboard and hold it so the sun's image at your back will be projected through the hole onto a white surface.

A rocket barrage from various points in North America will herald the eclipse. The rockets will be used in conducting various ex-periments.

A jet aircraft, carrying sci-entists and an astronaut, Navy Lt. Cmdr. Malcolm S. Carpenter, will chase the eclipse's shadow across the continent.

Radio beams from earth will be focused on it.

Radio astronomers in various parts of the globe will tune in on radio emissions from the great star itself when its face is wholly or partially darkened by the pas-sage of the moon between the earth and the sun in just the right way.

Other scientists will study the antics of birds and other wildlife during the eerie period of the eclipse. A University of Maine group, for example, intends to keep tabs on the behavior of mos-quitoes.

The Tiro VI weather-satellite is expected to take pictures of the cloud cover in various parts of the world during the eclipse.

The eclipse will be the first to be seen throughout the United States and Canada since 1930.

The great shadow, traveling at speeds averaging nearly 1,800 miles an hour, will cut across the North Pacific and the Bering Sea, then move inland to sweep across Manitoba and Ontario on Canada, then through southern Quebec and central Maine — leav-ing North America at Bar Harbor.

Question Sioux City Man About KC Slaying

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Detectives from Kansas City are in Sioux City, Iowa, questioning a man about the slaying of three women in Kansas City.

Hubert Wesley Fincher, who is 52 and has served three prison terms, was arrested at Sioux City Tuesday on a charge of transporting stolen merchandise across state lines.

Fincher apparently has shuttled between Kansas City and Sioux City since 1949. One of the prison terms was imposed in 1937 for a robbery in Kansas City.

Hortense and Horace got married early—rabbits usually do—and, kid, they lived it up. All those kids, all those expenses.

One day while Horace was figuring the bills, he got all hopped up over the way things were not improving, and he said:

"Deficit spending is immoral."

"It sure is, sweetie," said Hor-tense.

"We should operate on a bud-get," said Horace.

"Let's," said Hortense.

So they settled down to the dreary business.

But Hortense soon recalled the living room furniture was tacky and Horace said he thought he had better keep up his member-ship in the golf club, and they began throwing fiscal rabbit punches at each other, and three days later there they were again, trying to make a deal with the man at the finance company.

Moral: Of course, anyone can save money—in the abstract.

Miss Karen Kay Twyman be-came the bride of Mr. Larry Wayne Hayworth at seven o'clock July 3 at Gospel Tabernacle.

The Rev. Neal Booe, Kansas City, read the double ring ceremony which took place before an altar set with lighted candles.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Vallora Twyman, 702 East Broadway and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Clarence Mullins, Route 4, and Mr. William Hay-worth, 1210 East 18th.

Miss Sharon Kelley played wed-ding music. Candles were lighted by Miss Mary Gropengizier and Miss Linda Phillips. They wore dresses of pink and beige.

The bride wore a ballerina length gown of green lace with long tapered sleeves, a green chiffon overskirt and accessories of white. She carried white car-nations.

Mrs. Connie Phillips, wearing a jade green street suit and white accessories, was matron of honor. Her flowers were white carna-tions.

Mr. Charles Phillips, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

The bride's mother wore a bright green dress with white ac-cessories. The mother of the bridegroom chose a blue sheath dress and accessories. Their flow-ers were white carnations.

The reception for friends and families was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother, where a wedding cake was served with punch.

year period with a total of 120 hours of instruction each year at various Army training centers throughout the nation. The final two weeks of the course, which is designed to prepare selected of-ficers for duties as commanders and general staff officers, is held at the college during the officers' annual active duty training period.

The college, the Army's senior tactical school, was established as the School of Application of Infantry and Cavalry in 1881.

Wichita U. Selects A New President

WICHITA (AP)—The University of Wichita Board of Regents selected Dr. Emory Linquist Wed-nesday night as the new president of the university.

Dr. Linquist will succeed Harry F. Corbin when Corbin's resigna-tion becomes effective Aug. 31.

Dr. Linquist carries the special title "university professor" at WU. Previously he was dean of facili-ties and dean of the college of liberal arts and sciences at the college.

Before joining the WU faculty in 1953, Dr. Linquist was president of Bethany College at Lindsborg, Kan., for 10 years.

He attended Morgan County High School.

Miss Hillyard Is Bride Of Mr. Don White

Miss Estelle Hillyard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hillyard, Bernie, and Mr. Don White, son of Mrs. Roxie White, 507 North Holden, were married in a cere-mony at half past one o'clock, Sunday, June 30, at the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. John Coats, Bernie, officiated in the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of light blue lace over dacron.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Caro-lyn Robinson, Jonesboro, Ark., sister of the bride.

Miss Pamela Wing and Miss Debra Wing, Parma, nieces of the bride, were candlelighters.

Mr. John Deuel, Sedalia, was best man.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hillyard wore a pink dress with a corsage of white carna-tions. The mother of the bride-groom wore a pink print on white dress with a white carnation cor-sage.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. A three tiered wedding cake and punch were served.

The couple left for Warrensburg following the reception. Mr. and Mrs. White are residing at 802 Elm Street there.

The bride was graduated in 1964 from the Missouri School for the Deaf at Fulton. The bride-groom attended the Missouri School for the Deaf and has been employed by The Standard-Herald in Warrensburg for several years.

Among out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kask, Mr. and Mrs. John Deuel, Sedalia; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robinson, Jonesboro, Ark.

Among showers given for the bride in the weeks before the wedding was a surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Dyer, Warrensburg.

Credit Union Office Robbed In St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A man walked through a crowd of people at Union Station Wednesday and into the credit union office, held up a clerk for $641, and walked out again through the crowd.

The clerk, Larman Shaneyfelt, 31, of Cahokia, Ill., described the robber as a white man between 30 and 35 years old, wearing sun-glasses. He said the man first identified himself as a railroad employe and asked to make a loan. Then he shut the door to the office, pulled a revolver and ordered Shaneyfelt to fill a bag with the money.

Shaneyfelt then was ordered to lie down on the floor as the robber walked out.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Gov. John M. Dalton said Wednesday night he has no immediate plans for calling a special session of the Legis-lature, but he has considered such action.

The Governor, speaking on a St. Louis panel television show ("Face The Issue" on KMOX-TV), said such a session would be called to discuss problems of urban areas.

However, the Governor said he would want urban Legislators to be reasonably agreed on what legislation is needed before he called a special session.

Name Fouled Up?

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — The cabin cruiser Jamibispigagicy-njoy-V docked here Wednesday.

If you think somebody got the name fouled up, it's your mistake. The boat is owned by Joseph A. Michael 2nd, president of the Michael Bus Line in Salem, Mass.

Michael said the boat was named by combining the first syl-lable of each first name or nick-name of the members of his family. He and his wife have sev-en children.

Adopted Girl Allowed To Come Home

By GENE OISHI

BUENA PARK, Calif. (AP)—A shy, quietly playful girl skipped about the lawn of her Buena Park home. Wearing a light blue dress, petticoat flying in the breeze, she occasionally stopped to touch the hand of her adopted father, who stood chatting with a neighbor.

She called him "papa-san."

The girl is 11-year-old Yukie Fukii Baker.

A year ago, Yukie was stranded in Japan. She could not obtain a visa to join her adopted parents—Stanley G. Baker—former Marine Corps master sergeant, and his Japanese-born wife Shizue.

Baker, 40, a veteran of World War II battles from Guadalcanal to Okinawa, and the Korean War, adopted Yukie in February, 1962, under Japanese law. But conflicting U.S. federal and state adoption laws prevented Baker from bringing her into this country. It was only through help of newspapers and top government officials that red tape finally was cut.

"People have just been wonderful," Baker said. "When Yukie moved into our new home, neighbors came with gifts. They even gave a welcoming party for her."

"She's had no trouble making friends here. In fact, it's been the other way around."

Yukie also joined the Girl Scouts, after going through the ranks of the Brownies.

Baker, who taught Japanese to Americans and English to Japanese while stationed in Japan, has been instructing Yukie in English at home. He now works for Autonetics, a division of North American Aviation.

Yukie, a fifth grader, has done remarkably well. "We're just delighted," Baker said. "She has been selected to participate in a high ability pupils program—a special program for gifted children."

She is a straight A pupil in arithmetic and science.

His attractive wife "Suzy," 37, has been taking business courses in local colleges and, in partnership with others, is starting an importing firm, specializing in Japanese electronics equipment.

The only problem, Baker said, is that Yukie seems to be losing interest in Japanese. "We'd like to keep her bilingual," he said, "it would be a shame to waste her Japanese."

The Bakers are going to enroll Yukie in a Japanese language

TV In Sight!

"THE LIVELY ONES" OF 1963

Last year "The Lively Ones," a summer replacement musical-variety series, earned such plaudits that it is back this year. It debuts July 25 on NBC-TV. As before, Vic Damone stars as singing host. His "permanent" dates are red-haired Quinn O'Hara as "Smitty" and blonde Gloria Neil as "Melvin."

school conducted by a Buddhist church, and Baker said he will also instruct her at home.

Baker adopted Yukie through the Japanese courts, but under a recently passed U.S. Immigration Law, he was told, it was necessary for both parents to have seen the child prior to adoption.

One way to get around the U.S. law was to have the state of California take jurisdiction in the case. But California officials told Baker a preadoptive investigation was necessary under California law. An investigation couldn't be ordered because Yukie was already adopted, they said.

Upon his return to Buena Park,

Baker wrote a letter to the Los Angeles Times explaining his situation. The Times printed the story and other papers picked it up.

"Within a week and a half after the story hit papers," Baker said, "Yukie was in this country. I heard about the power of the press, but this was really something."

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown pledged his support and asked the State Social Welfare Department for a report on the case. Welfare Director John Wedemeyer ordered a preadoptive study. Ben Rosenberg, western area district director of the U.S.

Revere Made Bolts

The Constitution, "Old Ironsides," considered the most famous ship in American history, cost $302,718.84 including guns and all equipment. The bolts which fastened her timbers and the copper sheathing on the bottom were made by Paul Revere, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Traditional bridal flower is the myrtle, which was sacred to Venus, goddess of love.

Immigration and Naturalization Service, said he would approve a visa petition as soon as the study was completed.

Yukie—clutching a small Japanese doll—arrived in the United States June 23, 1962.

In Test Ban Talks

Seem Headed For Trouble

MOSCOW (AP) — U. S., British and Soviet negotiators Thursday held their shortest session to date on a limited nuclear test ban treaty as they apparently moved toward difficult areas of the issue.

The session began late, because Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko held up the start for an hour and a half so he could give a luncheon for an East German delegation that arrived Wednesday.

An hour and 25 minutes after the meeting opened, Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman and Lord Hailsham, the U.S. and British chief negotiators, drove away in an American sedan. They talked seriously but seemed unperturbed.

Asked how the talks were progressing, Hailsham replied: "Reasonably nicely."

Harriman, Gromyko and Hailsham issued their most uncommunicative communique of the week. It said simply that they "met again on July 18 to discuss some of the provisions of a test ban treaty covering tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under water, and also continued their exchange of views on other matters of mutual interest."

The statement said the next meeting will be held on July 19. Wednesday's communique had said progress was made in drafting some of the provisions of a test ban treaty.

The delegates dug out texts of the earlier treaties proposed in the talks in Geneva.

One delegation member indicated he felt all along that if there truly was a will for a treaty, a treaty would be worked out.

Increasingly the Western delegates have indicated there is a will evident in Moscow for an agreement which would relieve the big countries of the costly burden of testing. Not to mention the danger it spells in speeding up and broadening the nuclear arms race.

A shadow was cast over the talks by the surprise arrival of the East German delegation headed by Foreign Minister Lothar Bolz. Asked about it, Harriman said he had not been told the East Germans were coming to Moscow. Under no circumstances, he told a newsman who asked, would the U.S. delegation have any contact with the East Germans.

U. S. Servicemen Killed in Ambush

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Three U.S. servicemen were slain Thursday in a Communist ambush on "Bloody Route 13" bringing to 89 the number of Americans killed in the South Vietnamese war.

The three—two captains and a sergeant of the special forces—were distributing medical supplies to villagers in Binh Long Province, 70 miles north of Saigon, when they were waylaid.

One of the victims was identified as Capt. Lawrence E. Hackley of Roanoke, Va.

Capt. Lawrence E. Hackley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brennie E. Hackley, Roanoke, Va.

The Army in Washington identified the victims as:

Capt. Lawrence E. Hackley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brennie E. Hackley, Roanoke, Va.

Capt. Robert K. Mosier, husband of Kyung Mosier, Ft. Bragg, N.C., and son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Mosier, Route 2, Grady, Ala.

M. Sgt. Jack D. Goodman, son of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Goodman, Route 2, Bonifay, Fla.

U.S. military authorities said Red guerrillas opened fire with small arms as the three-vehicle convoy drove up the road near the village of Loc Ninh. The Vietnamese driver of the leading jeep and another Vietnamese were wounded.

The guerrillas then let loose with automatic weapons and lobbed a grenade into the second jeep. The American sergeant was killed outright and the two captains were fatally wounded. A third Vietnamese was critically wounded.

Convoy security forces returned the fire and the Communist Viet Cong withdrew.

The road through Red-infested territory is known as "Bloody Route 13" because of the number of casualties Americans have suffered there.

Traffic Panel Recommends Four Changes

The Citizens Traffic Advisory Committee drafted recommendations Wednesday night to be sent to the City Council calling for four changes affecting traffic in and around Sedalia.

Although one area is out of the city limits, the committee is asking the council to urge the State Highway Department to look into the situation. The panel asks that the speed limit on South Highway 65 near Elm Hills Golf Course entrance be reduced to 40 miles per hour from 50 miles per hour. The committee also asks that the speed limit on Limit avenue from 32nd street to 16th be reduced from 40 miles per hour to 30 miles per hour.

W. A. Smith, chairman of the committee, produced figures showing that 51 accidents have occurred on South Limit this year and he opined that the business buildup in that area necessitates a reduction in the speed limit.

No Controversy Expected Here On Prayer Rule

Little, if any, controversy is expected over the Supreme Court's ruling banning prayer at the opening of classes, when the upcoming school year opens in Sedalia Public Schools this fall.

P. A. Sillers, Director of Elementary Education, said that the Sedalia public schools have no set policy regarding prayer and Bible reading in classrooms. This decision, according to Sillers, has always been left up to the individual teachers.

In the past some classes have opened with Bible reading, some with prayer, and some with no preliminaries whatsoever.

This policy of leaving the decision up to the teacher will be continued. E. G. Kehde, president of the Board of Education, said, unless the board receives complaints. He added that to date, the Board has not received a single complaint regarding prayer or Bible reading in classrooms, thus the matter has not been discussed by the board.

The Board of Education, for the past six years at least, has opened meetings with a prayer.

Higher Payments

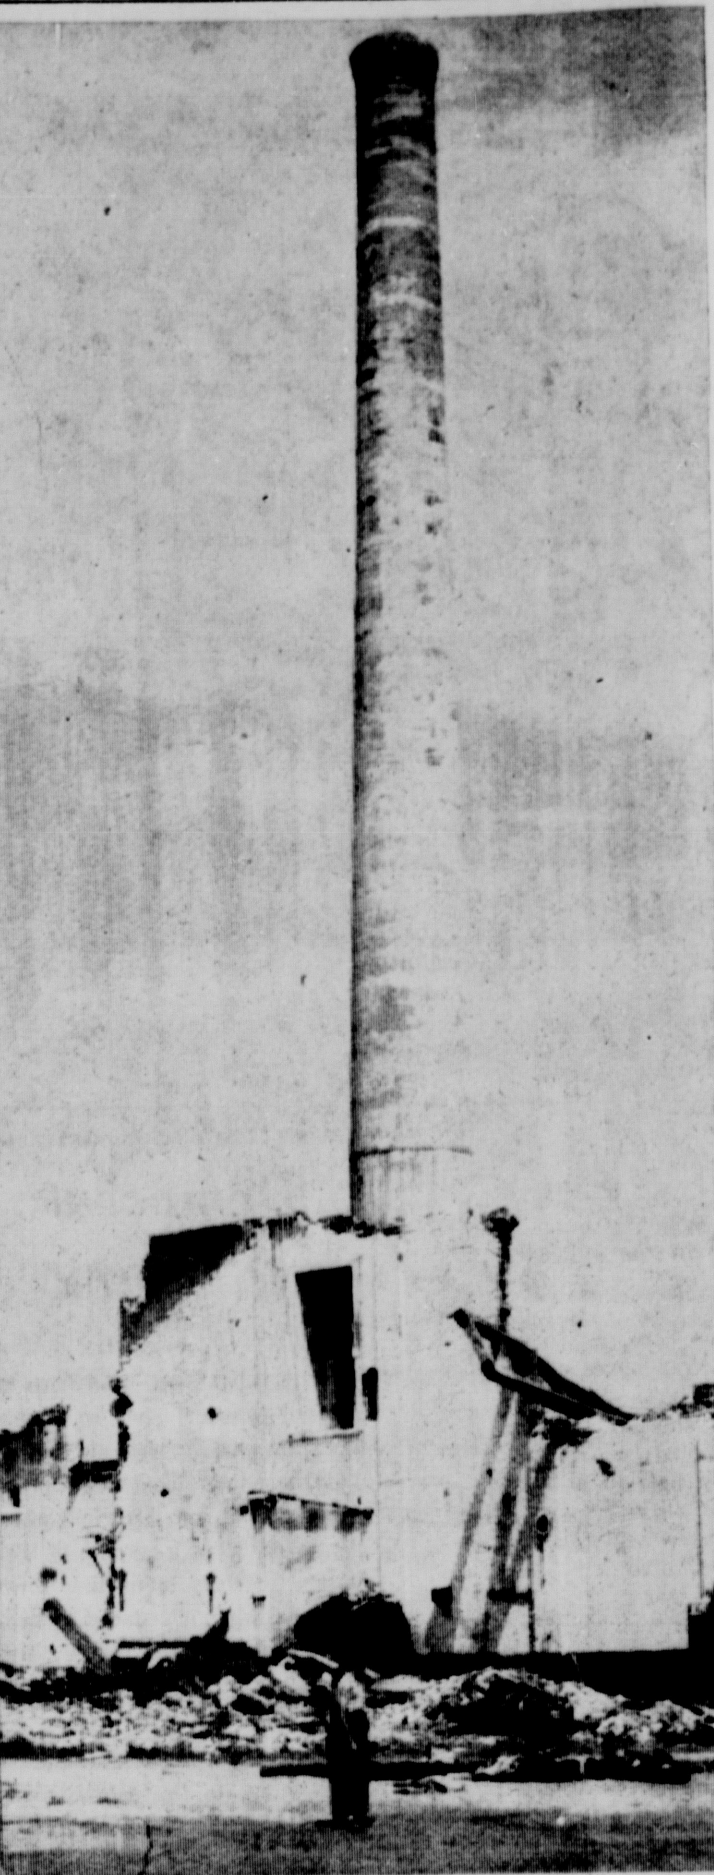

New Feed Grains Plan Announced

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department announced Thursday provisions of the 1964 feed grain program designed to prevent overproduction of feed grains and wheat through voluntary measures and government payments.

The program offers higher payments than a 1963 program for cutting 1964 acreages of corn, barley and sorghum grain below this year's level. To the extent such a reduction is accomplished in these acreages, use as live-stock feed would be made of part or all of the increased production in wheat, which is expected to result because growers rejected tight wheat controls in a referendum last May.

The provision of a larger feed market for wheat would be expected to help support prices and incomes of wheat growers.

For the first time in years, wheat next year will be grown free of mandatory acreage allotments and marketing quotas. Price supports for wheat were dropped to around $1.25 a bushel compared with $2 now.

COMING DOWN—This photo reminds one of the Alamo, with a smokestack in the background. But it isn't. It's the remains of the old MKT shop buildings in Sedalia, being torn down to clear the area for business ventures. John Ruby of Oklahoma City is doing the razing. He reports some 60 per cent of the work is completed, with the remaining work to be completed "before the snow flies." Some 28 carloads of brick have been shipped out, with more to go. Ruby declined to say when the stack would come down, for fear that some spectator might be injured in the operation. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

New Draft of Sewer Project Report To Pollution Board

Mayor L. L. Studer said today a new draft of the city's proposed sewer project is in process of being submitted to the Missouri Water Pollution Board with request for their final approval.

The new draft of the report by Burns & McDonnell, consulting engineers, Kansas City, includes the recommendation of the Missouri Water Pollution Board letters of June 11 and June 25, according to the mayor. The pollution board's recommendations were discussed by the mayor and City Council at a closed meeting in the mayor's office on July 8.

Studer said that as soon as the approval is forthcoming, a formal presentation of this document will be submitted to the public.

Traffic Count Is Under Way Along Limit

The city received quick response to a request for traffic counts at 16th and Limit and 32nd and Limit by the State Highway Department, but officials are expected to be disappointed again that the survey is being made during the week.

Personnel from the State Highway Department began counting traffic flow at 16th and Limit at noon Wednesday.

The Democrat-Capital discussed the count with John Payne at the 16th and Limit intersection Thursday morning.

Payne said 12 hour counts, not necessarily in a consecutive period, are required for the survey. The 12 hours must be in an average week.

The 16th and Limit traffic was counted from 12 noon to 7 p.m. Wednesday, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon Thursday and the count will conclude after a 7 a.m. to 10 a.m. check Friday.

Additional Repairs Will Be Needed Now For Police Vehicle

Police car No. 6, better known as the department's unmarked radar car, was scheduled for general repairs. It will need some more now.

Sgt. Perry A. Franklin, 41, 506 South New York, was southbound in the car at 6:04 a.m. Thursday when the radar vehicle was involved in a minor collision with a northbound car which was reported making a left turn. The accident occurred in the 700 block of South Warren.

Driver of the other auto, a 1961 Ford, was Kenneth W. Mickens, 37, 1206 South Kentucky. The right front of both vehicles were damaged.

Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin had reported at Monday night's City Council session that the radar car needed about $90 worth of repairs, including transmission adjustment and front end alignment. The car had not yet been sent for repairs.

New City Well's a Gusher

A 12-HOUR test run on the new Water Department well on Spring Fork Creek east of Anderson School Wednesday indicates the new well will be able to produce from two to three times as much water as any well now in use in the water treatment plant area.

During the test, the well produced 760 gallons per minute, maintaining the water level in the well at only 65 feet. The well could have produced more, according to L. C. (Red) Heurman, in charge of production for the Water Department, if a larger pumping combination had been available.

The unexpected production capacity was indicated a few days ago, when the well began producing some 100 gallons per minute as an artesian well. A steady stream from a four-inch run-off pipe ran steadily during the last days of drilling.

In short tests, Heurman said, the well had produced up to 1,500 gallons per minute, drawing the water down to about 65 feet. After these short tests, it took about 20 minutes for the well to begin running over again.

Ken Smith, driller for the Layne-Weston Co., said the well has been drilled to the 1,463-foot level, where granite was encountered. It was planned, on the basis of the depth of wells in the area, to go down to the pump station area, to go below

Pleads For Passage Of Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy told the Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday that those who preach states' rights are not "seeking the protection of the individual citizen, but his exploitation."

In pleading before the Southern-dominated group for passage of the administration's civil rights program, Kennedy said:

"The time is long past—if indeed it ever existed—when we should permit the noble concept of states' rights to be betrayed and corrupted into a slogan to hide the bald denial of American rights, of civil rights, and of human rights."

Kennedy told the Committee that passage of the controversial public accommodations part of the program is essential.

"It is the part whose prompt enactment will accomplish the most immediate good in stamping out the fires of racial discord in our land," he said, adding:

"Even as we sit here today, National Guardsmen patrol the streets of Cambridge, Md., to prevent violence. Unrest is boiling in Savannah, Ga., in Danville, Va., and in countless other cities in the North as well as in the South."

"This is what happens when long-standing legitimate grievances are not remedied under law."

Under questioning by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Kennedy said it is "not correct" to say the administration program was submitted to Congress because, as Ervin put it, "we are now

Leaves Prison Farm

Reeder was sent to prison in March, 1960, to serve a 10-year term on a Jackson County conviction of armed robbery.

Local Man Testifies At Milk Trial

Testimony Wednesday in Kansas City at the anti-trust trial of the National Dairy Products corporation and Raymond J. Wise, former vice-president and director of the corporation, centered on the dairy trade area of Sedalia.

George Freese, owner of the Freese Dairy Company, Main and Prospect, said that in 1957 and 1958 his volume of business was cut nearly in half as a result of the price of milk being lowered by Sealtest, the midwest division of National.

Freese said he primarily was selling milk in a gallon jug and that during the price war at that time National was selling two half gallons of milk in paper cartons for the same price as he was charging for the gallon jugs.

The government also is expected to call witnesses to testify about milk market conditions in the Lexington, Mo., area during 1957 and 1958.

The government has alleged that National and Wise violated the federal anti-trust laws by attempting to fix the price of milk and eliminate competitors in the Greater Kansas City area.

$690,000 Bonds Set for Negroes

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Bonds totaling $690,000 were set Thursday for 68 Negroes arraigned on riot charges in Tuesday night's racial disturbance. The city has promised a "no compromise" prosecution.

Attorneys for the Negroes immediately served notice they will appeal to Circuit court for a reduction in $15,000 bonds fixed for two leaders of the Negro movement. They also will ask reduction of the $10,000 bonds set for the other 66 defendants, many of them teenagers.

Magistrate George P. Runey ordered Rev. I. DeQuincy Newman, state field secretary for the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, held under $15,000 bond.

A $15,000 bond also was ordered for James Blake, an NAACP youth director who had been active in leading the weeks of demonstrations which culminated in the riot in which six policemen and a fireman were hurt.

Mayor J. P. Gaillard said in a statement Wednesday the city of Charleston "will not lag in prosecution of those who breach the peace." He said "there will be no withdrawing of charges... no compromise."

Despite advance notice of two mass meetings, the day passed with relative quiet in this old port city. Eighty-five state highway patrolmen have been dispatched here by Gov. Donald Russell.

Thirty agents of the crack State Law Enforcement Division also were on hand. They and the patrolmen augmented local police forces who kept a watchful eye on all motor and pedestrian traffic.

Mother Of Slain Doctor Lived Here

Dr. Jack A. Haley, Prairie Village, Kan., who allegedly was killed by his wife, Doris, at their home Wednesday, was the son of Mrs. Grace Haley Mesger, Sullivan, who for a number of years resided in the apartment home she owned at 215 South Grand, and which she recently sold. Dr. Haley and his family frequently visited his mother in Sedalia.

Born in St. Louis, he was reared near Boonville and attended high school there. During World War II he served four years as a Marine in the South Pacific. He served his internship at the Memorial Medical Center, Kansas City, and then went in practice for two years at Hanover, Kans.

Leaving Hanover, he became a surgeon specialist and was a resident at Charity Hospital in New Orleans three years, after which he moved to the Kansas City area and was a member of the surgery staff at Trinity Lutheran Hospital. He then moved to New Mexico, where he operated his own hospital for a year, returned to this area and became a staff member of the hospital in Appleton City.

He was married to Mrs. Haley in Boonville on May 7, 1944. Besides his mother he is survived by four children, Dianne, 18; Janet, 17; Lance, 7 and Bruce, 5; six brothers, Marvin Haley, Marionville; Bernard Haley, Kansas City; Wendell Haley, Littleton, Colo.; Donald Haley, Temple Terrace, Fla.; William Haley, Orange, Calif.; and Ted Haley, Columbia; and three sisters, Mrs. Betty Lee Schwarz, Grandview; Mrs. Gwendolyn Weatherman, and Mrs. Beverly Allen, Kansas City. The children, all except Janet, who was with a girl friend, were asleep in the home at the time of the shooting, which took place in the bedroom.

OFF THE TRACK — When the air brakes released on three diesel units Tuesday afternoon, the heavy machines slowly rolled down the grade on the MKT spur in the old MKT shops area, hit this empty boxcar in front of the Pettis County Plant Foods, Inc., building, knocking the boxcar off the end of the line and into the brick pile in the foreground. One diesel unit also left the tracks. The diesel unit was put back on the track Tuesday afternoon, and the boxcar was put back on the tracks Wednesday morning. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Menace on Limit Avenue

How many motorists will suffer partial disability, or death within the city limits on South 65 Highway (Limit Ave.) between Broadway and 32nd street before some corrective measures are taken to reduce the hazards along this rapidly developing commercial area?

Two major collisions within two days appear to be forerunners of worse ones to come especially at the entrances and exits of two drive-in eating establishments on the east side of the pavement across from the Missouri State Fairgrounds. Southbound left-turn traffic at these places poses a problem in spite of three lanes. Lake-bound traffic, especially the tail-gater, has little chance to avoid collision if cars ahead come to abrupt stops in this 40 mile an hour zone.

Dangerous intersections exist at 16th street, at the Country Club, at the Country Club addition, at the Southwest Village entrance, at the five-point pin-wheel intersections adjacent to the new Holiday Inn.

Nine years ago when the Urban Area Highway improvement plan was under consideration, the State Highway Department stated that from the south city limits, where Holiday Inn is now located, to Broadway no improvement was considered necessary on South 65 at that time. In 1958, within a space of four years, the Highway department noted that traffic had shown a greater than normal increase, amounting to more than 50%. Due to this increase it was decided to include the improvement of South 65 in the general plan.

Now, after five more years, the traffic has again doubled. This compounds a problem that was never originally envisioned.

The Urban plan includes widening to provide four lanes of traffic from Holiday Inn corner (the city limits) north to the Katy railroad underpass; however, it was not proposed to widen the Katy railroad underpass to provide four lanes AT THAT TIME — 1958.

We suggest the Sedalia city council review with the Highway Department the need now for widening the underpass and the highway at that point as it continues north to Broadway in the form of four 12-foot travel lanes with 8-foot parking lanes on each side, except on the west side from the railroad underpass to 16th street which is along the Missouri State Fair grounds property. Here the parking lane would be eliminated.

While Sedalia is waiting for this part of the Urban improvement to be started, traffic hazards along the stretch are progressively increasing beyond anyone's expectation.

Sedalia's Traffic Advisory committee has taken cognizance of the situation, and appealed to city council to request the Highway department to install traffic control lights at the five point road intersections at 32nd street, and also renew a request for a control light at 16th street.

The Highway department has antipathies against too many control lights on its highways because it reduces and congests the normal traffic flow, so the reasoning goes.

Until South 65 is widened, perhaps the traffic lights can be installed merely as temporary expedients.

Perhaps some consideration should be given to reducing the 40-mile speed zone to 30 from the city limits to 16th street and from 30 to 25 on to Broadway — and enforce these limits. Here again we encounter reluctance of the Highway Department to decrease speed zones.

Nevertheless, something positive must be done to minimize the traffic hazards on South 65 until that improvement is consummated, which will not be soon by any means.

Procrastination is handmaiden to traffic deaths.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Red Chinese Opposition Began Early

(Editor's Note—The break between Red China and Soviet Russia, probably the biggest international event of this decade, is diagnosed further today by Drew Pearson, who has specialized in watching the Communist world.)

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON—The western world has forgotten it, but the first significant sign of a break between Khrushchev and the leaders of Red China over coexistence with the United States occurred in July of 1958 when Mr. K announced he was taking a trip to New York to attend the United Nations.

Suddenly the trip was called off. Backstage reason was a protest from Red China. The Chinese did not want their Russian colleague conferring with the other members of the Communist bloc in New York, a city which they, as non-members of the UN, could not enter. And they also did not want him conferring with the United States.

The second significant sign of the Red Chinese-Russian break occurred after Khrushchev had defied the Chinese frowns and conferred with President Eisenhower at Camp David in 1959. One of the agreements he and Ike arrived at was that K would go to Peking and endeavor to straighten out the tension which had existed between the United States and Red China over the Formosan strait. The Eisenhower administration had been worried over the Chinese shelling of Quemoy and Matsu and the risk of war.

Khrushchev carried out his promise. Within a week after the Camp David talks, he flew to Peking.

What happened there has never been fully disclosed. However, the Indian government used to have excellent intelligence in Peking, and when I was in India in 1959, two months after Khrushchev's visit, Prime Minister Nehru confirmed the report that Khrushchev had been given a brush-off.

No high Chinese delegation met him at the airport. He was kept cooling his heels for a couple of days before Mao Tse-tung or any other top leaders saw him.

And none of them gave him any satisfaction regarding tension in the Formosan strait. The Red Chinese did not like K's talks with Eisenhower any more than certain right-wingers in the United States liked them.

Ike Is Pressured Too

In fact, it soon developed that while Khrushchev was under pressure from the Red Chinese not to patch up differences with the United States, Eisenhower was under just as much pressure from conservative advisers not to patch up relations with Russia.

In the interim, the agreement between Khrushchev and Eisenhower to refrain from public criticism while working gradually toward better understanding, showed results. When Eisenhower visited Rome in November, 1959, two months after the Camp David talks, he got a rousing reception. Even the Communist party turned out its children with small flags: "We like Ike." The reception was in contrast to the yawns received by President Kennedy, the first American Catholic president, in the No. 1 Catholic country. The difference obviously was that in 1959 the Communist party had received instructions from Moscow to welcome Ike whereas in 1963 they boycotted Kennedy.

Finally came the U-2 flight over Russia on May 1, 1960, just 18 days before the summit conference in Paris. Its reaction on Russian public opinion and particularly on the Red Chinese and Soviet right-wingers was identical to the reaction which would have taken place in the United States had a Soviet spy plane been shot down over St. Louis.

Ike Wanted Peace

About a year after the incident, Khrushchev told me what had happened at the only Paris meeting which he attended with Eisenhower, Prime Minister Macmillan, and President De Gaulle. He said that he explained Russian public reaction had been so vigorous over the U-2 spy plane that he could not go ahead with the summit meeting unless there was an expression of regret from the United States.

President Eisenhower, he said, leaned over to Secretary of State Herter and whispered in a voice which the Russian interpreter, Victor Sukhodrev, easily heard. "I don't see any reason why we shouldn't do something like that."

But Herter said no.

This, said Khrushchev, was one reason he didn't think Eisenhower ran his own administration. He described Ike as a man who sincerely wanted peace, and it was quite evident from the description of his talks with Eisenhower that he was impressed with Ike's sincerity though not with his efficiency.

This ended one of the most important attempts between the leaders of the Soviet Union and the United States to bring about better understanding. It was a far more significant meeting than that between Kennedy and Khrushchev in Vienna 18 months later, one reason being that Eisenhower, a military man, and one who had been in the White House for almost eight years, was in a better position to calm the Goldwaters, the Keatings, and the Strom Thurmonds who have constantly criticized Kennedy's peace efforts.

It was Eisenhower's ambition, as he confided to intimates, to go down in history as a man of peace.

Khrushchev caught this fact. He also understood the fact that Eisenhower had men around him who differed. It was not difficult for Khrushchev to understand this because he himself has to battle not only the right wing of Peking, which wants war with the United States, but recalcitrant advisers in the Kremlin who argue that you cannot trust the United States—just as the right wing in the United States argues that we cannot trust Russia.

President Kennedy will have one more chance to pick up the pieces dropped at the Paris summit conference. The chance will occur in Moscow when Averell Harriman sits down with Russian negotiators to try to reach an agreement on a nuclear test ban. It will probably be the last chance.

The Wren

"What kind of a bird is that?" asked she.
As it perched on a fence by the cedar tree.
Chattering and nodding its tiny head.
"That is a little wren," I said.
"How did it happen that it came here."
"When there aren't any wren boxes near?"
And she was right—it was very true.
But what did the little wrens do
Before man thought that there should be
Wren houses—they used a hole in a tree,
Instinct, I'm sure God gave birds all.
To build in a shrub or grass real tall,
Or fashion their nests in branches high
Or a hollow tree or brush near by.
But for wrens and martins—and other birds, too,
Man built them houses as his wisdom grew.
Instead of caves he began to build
A house for protection when the air was chilled.
He learned to heat it—he learned many things.
He watched the bird as it spread its wings
And flew about from tree to tree,
And decided: "They need a home like me."
So he patterned the house after his own
Drilled a wee hole so sparrows would leave it alone
And invited the wren to step inside.
She did, and was pretty well satisfied.
When houses with tiny holes
Have been one of bird house makers goals,
So Jenny Wren just hops about.
She goes in her house and then comes out,
She cocks her head and opens her bill
To sing her bubbling little trill
And she and her family, from tree to wire
Flutter back and forth to their hearts desire.
"There's a housing shortage" says she to her mate,
"It looks like" she adds, "We'll have to wait."
"It's fun" said he as he flits about,
"Our vacation this year we'll be camping out."
And Jenny bristles and puts up her tail
"That" she says, "Sounds just like a male,
"I'd feel much safer in a house," said she
"Than raising babies up in a tree.
"Where out of their nests they can't easily fall
"And the cat can't get in a hole so small."
And she looked at her would-be pioneer.
This modern wren with outdoor fear.
She stood on the fence we heard her fuss,
She was trying to protect her young from us.

Not Ugly American

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., President Kennedy's newly appointed ambassador to South Vietnam will never be called an "ugly American." He is one of the handsomest men in public life.

In picking Lodge the President again has put a Republican in a hot spot. Although a defeated candidate for the vice-presidency in 1960, Lodge has displayed his bi-partisan attitude. He came out strongly for the administration's trade bill which successfully passed both houses.

South Vietnam is a difficult assignment. Lodge's many years in public life as senator from Massachusetts, Ambassador to the United Nations and his ability to speak French will aid him greatly in his new assignment.

Democrat Pick-ups

ALTHOUGH SHE WAS born in a small Missouri town some distance away she grew up in Sedalia and has lived here practically all of her life, but when she went with a group of Sedalians recently to another town and was being introduced to people someone asked her: "And where are you from—Springfield or Kansas City?"

Without a moment's hesitation the woman, to the astonishment of the other Sedalians, and certainly to her own astonishment, answered: "No, I'm from St. Louis."

If she had been in another part of the country or world and had been like some Sedalians, ashamed of her country town "because nobody ever heard of it" and say they are from Kansas City or St. Louis, it would be different. But she is proud of Sedalia and one of its best boosters—exactly why she said she was from St. Louis she will never know—St. Louis just slipped out and she doesn't know where it came from, but she was quick to make the correction. "I don't mean St. Louis, I'm from Sedalia," she said quickly, and everybody laughed at her giggling embarrassment. Nobody she met is going to forget very soon where she was from. They may not remember where anybody else was from but they will remember, with amusement, that she was from Sedalia.—H. L.

DENVER POST: Undersea Lawnmower.—What we have got to do, if we humans are going to stick around here much longer, say another ten or fifteen thousand years, is figure out how to make better use of our resources.

Conservationists have been telling us this for a good long time, and most of us have listened, said yep, and gone about our business of lighting matches and cutting down Christmas trees without another thought.

Well, we are glad to be able to tell you that somebody is doing some work on the subject. A lot of somebodies are, but we have been particularly intrigued by one ingenious application of nature to solve a problem.

In British Guiana a scientist has harnessed the sea cow to make a kind of undersea lawnmower. He took manatees and put them in pools with underwater vegetation. The manatees ate vegetation at the rate of 100 pounds per day, and soon had the pools as clean as well-kept tropical fish tanks. In fact, the manatees had to be given supplemental feedings because the supply of grasses ran out.

In Florida, the conservationists who operate the five hundred miles of canals that flow through 18 counties have greeted the news with huzzahs. They have a problem and it looks like the manatees are going to solve it. The canals choke up with grasses and weeds, the waters flood, and the conservationists spend a half million dollars a year just to keep them partly clean.

The answer, they think, is to round up a heard of sea cows. And maybe next spring they will do just that.

tion will be one of the issues in the next presidential campaign and that sending a Republican there as Ambassador will not change it. That remains to be seen. Ambassador Lodge can be counted on to counteract the picture described in Lederer and Burdick's book, "The Ugly American."

FINDING THE WAY

Time of Beginning

BY RALPH W. LOEW D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The Gestapo officers waited until the benediction had been pronounced. Then they quickly stepped to the chancel and told the pastor to come with them. The minister took a Bible from the altar. As he passed the front pew where his 13-year-old son was seated with his mother, he thrust the book into the boy's hand, saying: "Now, you begin."

Today that youth is a fearless pastor and, if you asked him how this conviction had grown in his life, he would quickly tell you of the last time he had heard a word from his father.

This true story is the symbol of the tremendous importance of influence in the life of a teenager.

Our tragedy is that too many families, churches and philanthropic groups miss the chance to deal courageously with this important age group. The advertising industry understands their importance. The cosmetic industry reaps millions each year from teenagers. The clothing designers and the entertainment business know the existence of this potential.

Adolescence is the time of amateur adulthood, not one or the other, a time awaiting knowledge and security, belonging and arrival, the growth of personal commitments.

Our country has an enormous seedbed of idealism in its teenagers. They yearn to throw themselves into great causes and will give themselves to the most extraordinary disciplines. They demand the empathetic climate where they can find:

An environment for a search for excellence. If parents and adults settle for shoddiness and a retreat to petty escapisms, and give no incentive for excellence, they need not be shocked when they do not find excellence in their children.

A deliberate search for a growing faith. We let young people off with our own faithlessness. We can only witness, but we CAN witness.

An understanding empathy. Young people are young people; that is their charm and their problem. They need to be understood as persons who are responsible, independent, and yearning for the security and understanding which whole persons require.

The freedom of mind where there can be an honest discussion within the home. Our harried schedules defy this, but it is still necessary. Our tendency to lecture instead of listening discourages this, but it is still requisite.

Three-Way Split in GOP Jeopardizes Course in '64

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — The standard Republican line now is that the Democratic party is so hopelessly split that it is completely ineffective.

This was the theme of the Joint Senate-House Republican Leadership manifesto.

Using President Kennedy's statement that Democrats in Congress would need Republican help to pass comprehensive civil rights legislation this year, Senate minority leader Everett M. Dirksen intoned the idea that this was a confession of Democratic administration disunity.

This raises the question of just how united the Republican party may be a year before its national convention.

As a curtain raiser, speaking at the San Francisco convention of Young Republicans, GOP Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania urged that elements of the party "not beat each other to bits." It seems to have been a futile appeal.

Full reports on this convention, brought back to Washington by participants, indicate it was a pretty rough affair. There was wide-open feuding between progressive and conservative factions. And it was only by the narrowest of margins that the organization escaped a takeover by the far right-wingers.

What this fight indicates is that the GOP may be just as badly split as the Democrats. There is abundant evidence that the ultra-conservatives make up a much larger percentage of the Republican party than in the Democratic party.

On civil rights legislation in particular, the Republican party—even if it were so completely victorious in 1964 as to sweep the White House and Congress—would have to depend far more on Democratic support to put through an effective rights program than the other way around.

Polly's Pointers

Bless That Man!

DEAR POLLY — My husband said, "Send these to Polly." While cutting grass on a terrace or slope, wear golf shoes. This makes for sure-footed cutting and has not hurt our lawn. In cold weather, wear cotton gloves under your rubber work gloves when you wash windows or hang out clothes. Polish golf irons with silver polish to make them look like new. — L. A. S.

DEAR POLLY — Here is a sewing tip: When making darts in the waist of a dress, I pin a piece of lightweight cardboard or a long envelope from the top dots to the dot at the end of the dart and machine stitch along the edge of the cardboard. The cardboard out of a hose box is excellent. This is a fast method and the lines will be straight and will come to a nice point.—MRS. H. L.

DEAR POLLY — Whenever our family makes telephone calls, we put 10 or 25 cents in a little "kitty" bank that stays near the telephone. Then when the telephone bill comes, we have the money ready. — MISS D. H.

GIRLS — This is a different way to budget. It would certainly cut down on the number of calls made by teen-agers, who sometimes spend most of their at-home hours on the telephone. — POLLY

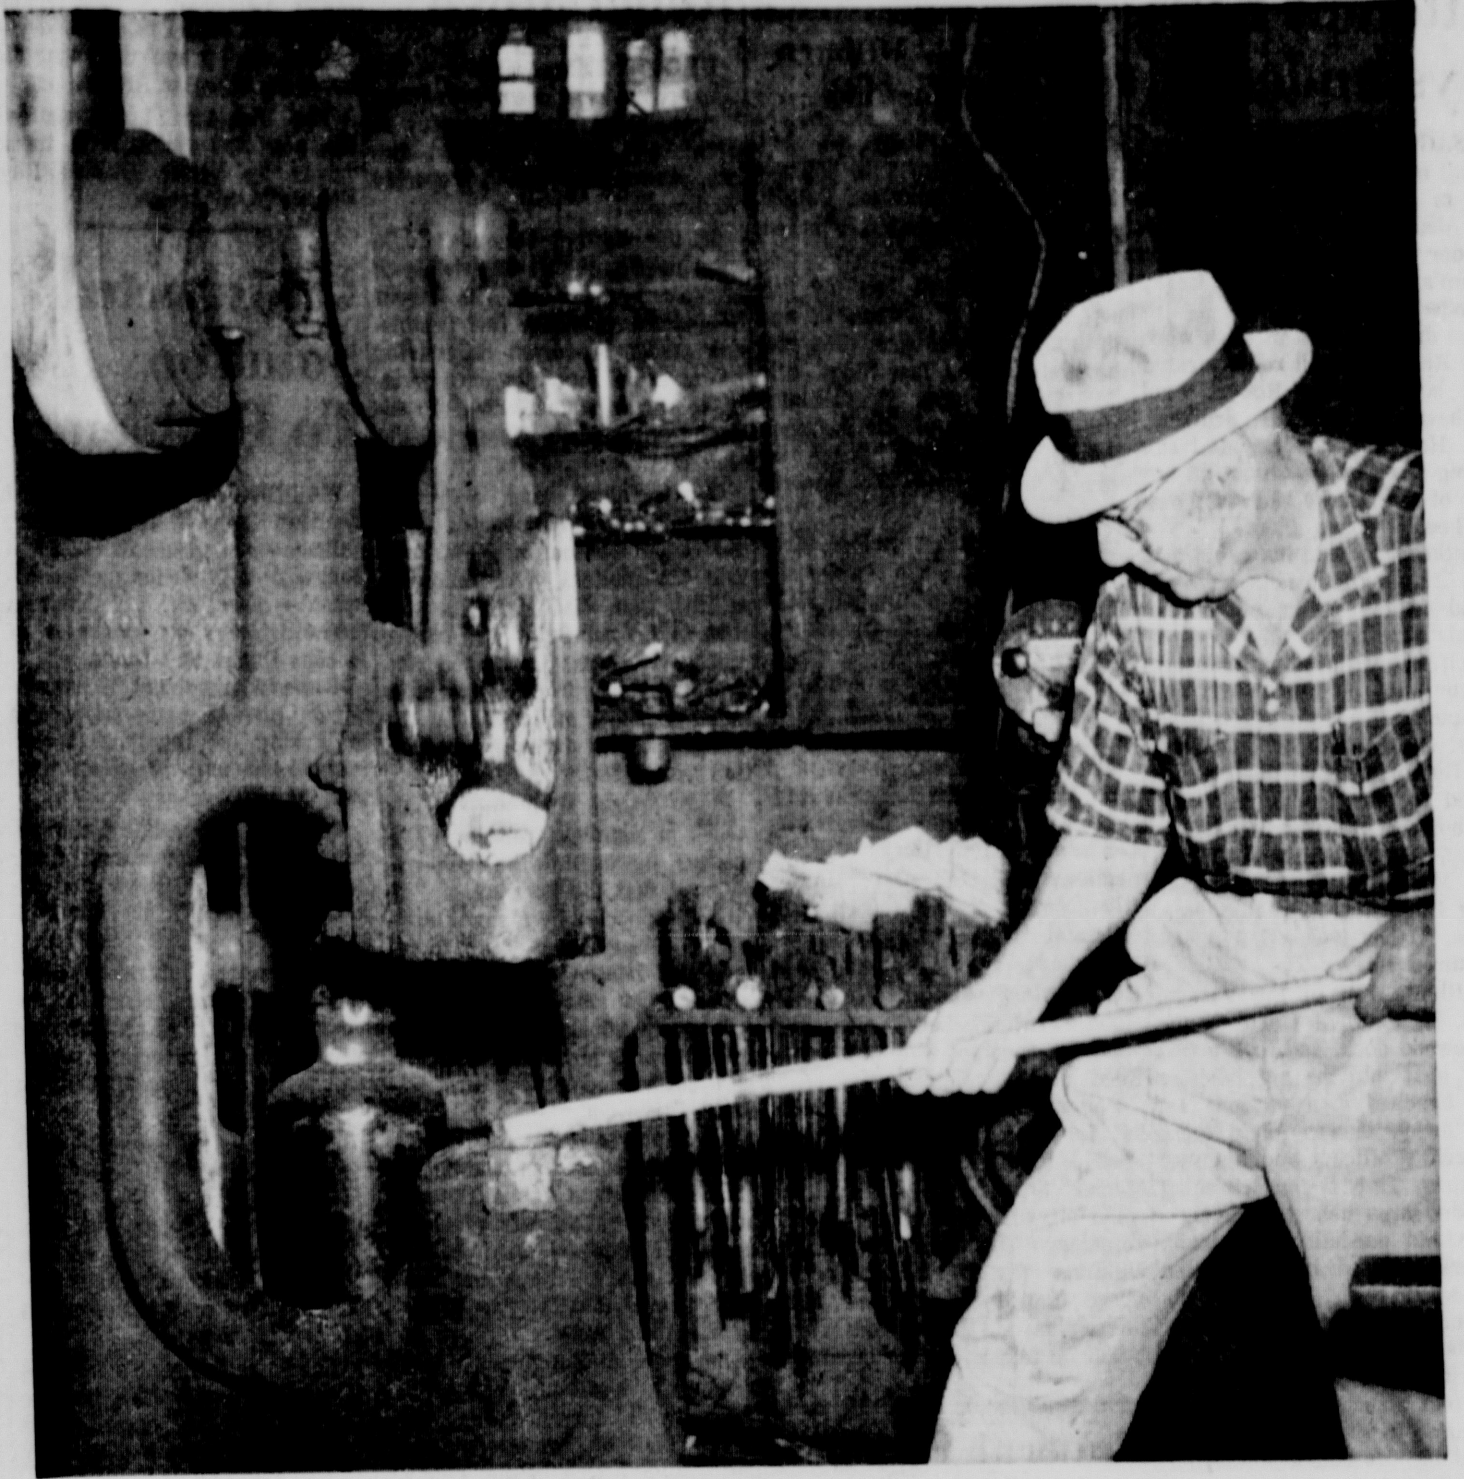

DEAR POLLY — I find ironing board clamps useful in reupholstering piano stools, chairs, etc. First, clamp the material in place with the spring-type clamps and hammer in the upholstery tacks. Remove clamps. No more slipping and sliding, no more baggy upholstery. You get a tight, professional look. — A. McG.

FIRST STEP — The first step used in the art of sharpening a plowshare is proper heating. When the metal reaches the proper heat, determined by the color, the plowshare is pounded out to the proper shape by hand. Then the share is immersed in water to obtain the right temper. It must be hard enough to prevent excessive wear, yet tough enough to withstand shock without breaking off.

THE NEW WAY—Sterling Land, blacksmith, retired, tries out a new-type power hammer in the shop of Leo Greene. This hammer can forge a piece of steel in seconds that used to take hours, using hammer and anvil. Land likes to visit the Greene shop often, to talk over old times and keep up to date on new developments in the blacksmithing trade. (Democrat-Capital photos).

The Blacksmiths' Anvil Still Rings

By RALPH JONES

COMPARE NOTES—Leo Greene, left, and Sterling Land, right, compare notes on modern grinding and methods used in this area around the turn of the century. Now, Greene explains, this mower blade can be ground in minutes, while the operation, using a foot-power grindstone common not too many years ago, took several hours. Land says an ambitious farmer used to have his children turn the grindstone while they were resting during the noon hour.

THE OLD WAY — Sterling Land and Leo Greene show how a crowbar was forged in the old days of blacksmithing. They should know, because Greene has been in the blacksmithing business for 35 years, and still operates a shop on Main near the Washington Street overpass, and Land, retired, began blacksmithing in 1904. This job took two men and a lot of muscle power. The power hammer in the background can do the work in seconds.

A heavy-set man placed his too box and a slab of heavy steel plate onto his wagon and headed up the trail into the backwoods Ozark Country.

His destination was a small sawmill where the leaky steam boiler was threatening to explode at any moment.

On arrival at the mill, the troubleshooter inspected the boiler and decided he could make the necessary patch on the spot. He formed a thin steel strap around the contour of the boiler where the patch was needed, then formed this contour in the ground.

The man then made a "brush pile" fire and placed the steel plate on the fire. When the steel had heated, the man pulled the plate over the contoured earth and went to work with his hammer. Soon the steel formed the proper curve for the patch. The worker drilled holes in the boiler around the leaky spot, and holes to match in the plate. Using the same brush pile fire, the man heated some bolts then bolted the plate over the leak. When the bolts cooled, the contraction drew the plate up around the leak so snugly that not a trace of steam escaped.

This incident occurred around the turn of the century. The man was Sterling S. Land ("Lightening") old time blacksmith, who now lives at 1620 South Missouri, in retirement.

A few days ago I decided to write something about an old-time blacksmith and began asking questions. The names of "Lightening" Land and Leo Greene were mentioned by several people. After checking I found Greene is still in the blacksmithing business, near the Washington Street overpass on Main, but Land has retired.

Greene agreed to allow us to use his shop, and even made arrangements with Land to take the accompanying photos. After all, Greene said, "Lightening" comes into the Greene shop once in a while just to keep his hand in the blacksmithing business, and to keep up to date on any new or interesting developments in the trade.

The ensuing conversation with Land and Greene was a gold mine of information, not only about the blacksmithing trade, but about the early history of this Mid-Missouri area.

Land began blacksmithing in this area in 1904, at Hasting, in Benton County, then moved to Deepwater, back to Hasting, to Warsaw and then to Sedalia in 1922 as blacksmith at Brown's Machine Shop. Brown's was only a little shop on Main at the time. In 1958, Land decided he had enough of blacksmithing and went into retirement.

Back in the early days the town

THE POINT—With hammer and anvil "Lightening" Land shows how he used to form the point of a plowshare. This used to cost ten cents. When the price was upped to 15 cents, Benton County farmers were up in arms. With materials available around the turn of the century, this sharpening had to be repeated many times during the season. With modern hardening methods, one sharpening may last all season.

blacksmith was expected to repair everything from sewing machines to steam boilers. There were no automobiles, thus no garages or service stations where spare parts can be had for the asking.

The parts were made by hand, from sheets of steel, using hand-powered blowers for the forges. Anvils, chisels and hammers, along with foot-powered grinders, were the tools of the trade. With these tools the blacksmith beat out his own plowshares, horse shoes and other necessary items of the day.

Land told of one instance where a major steel company wanted some work done on some high-grade, special steel. He agreed to do the work, which included some grinding. Shortly thereafter he became one of the more popular blacksmiths, because he used the high grade steel dust to "face-harden" plowshares that would last many times longer than the plowshares produced by the usual methods.

Welding in Land's early days consisted of placing the parts to be welded in the forge, and heating the parts until they melted together. A black dust to help the parts fuse together faster was on the market, but Land said the dust was no better than some sand he found near his shop. He used the sand.

Now, in Greene's shop, Land finds all sorts of new metals, complete with analysis, and welding rods to match any type of

NO MORE — We never did find out what this cone-shaped tool is called, but we found out what it was used for. It was used to place the bevel in the little hoop that fitted around the wooden hub of wagon wheels to keep the spokes tight. This was one of the newer innovations, Land explained. When he began blacksmithing, the bevel was placed in the hoops by hand. We found the tool, not used for many years, in Green's shop.

Potatoes Grow On Tomato Vine

A tomato vine with potatoes on it is something new and different — but that is what grew in the garden of Mrs. C. B. Cunningham, La-

Monte. Just how it got so mixed up, Mrs. Cunningham doesn't know, but instead of growing potatoes under the ground, this vine had potatoes growing up the branches of the vine. The tomato in the vine, however, didn't give up entirely to the potatoes. It had one blossom at the top which grew into a little tomato.
